AACHEN, 12 MARCH 1901:....In his first public address in the new capitol, Kaiser Frederick V today declared war on the Kingdom of Holland. During the recent revolt which led to the overthrow of Kaiser Wilhelm II, The former ruler of Germany fled to Holland and was given asylum. A warrant for his arrest, on charges of treason, was sent to the Netherlands government, but was not complied with. "The German Government," said his Majesty, "has no choice but to declare war on the Netherlands. We wish to assure the people of Holland, however, that our troops will leave Holland as soon as the miscreant Wilhelm is found and brought to justice. We also wish to assure our neighbors France and England, that we have no warlike intentions against their domains."

FRIEDRICHSTHAL (FORMERLY AMSTERDAM), 6 April 1901;...His Highness Prince Sigismund-Karl-Ruprecht-Maria-Kraft-Wenzel-Nepomuk of Anhalt-Muschkopfen, Commander of the Imperial Expeditionary Force to the United Provinces, declared today that two weeks of searching had failed to turn up any trace of the former Kaiser Wilhelm. Supported by the German High Seas Fleet, the Expeditionary forces have occupied Friedrichsburg (Formerly Gravenhage), Friedrichheim (formerly Rotterdam) and other Dutch Cities. His Imperial Majesty Frederick V, has ordered Prince Sigismund to stay in Holland until the fugitive is found. Meanwhile, despite persistent rumors that Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands, is being held incommunicado at Friedrichstadt (Formerly Utrecht), The German Government has steadfastly refused to reveal the whereabouts of the Queen.

DEUTCHENHAVEN (FORMERLY JAKARTA), 21 April 1901;...Count Leopold of Mecklenburg-Neustrelitz-Mausturden, Commander of the German Pacific Fleet, today reported that all centers of resistance in the German (formerly Dutch) East Indies have been overcome. The Count is now twice the hero in Germany, where he is already celebrated for his annexation of the entire province of Shantung last January. In a personal message from the Kaiser, the Count has been made hereditary Duke of Diawa (Java). He has stated that he plans a large--scale resettlement of Germans in his new realm.

ISTANBUL--AM--RHEIN (24 January 1901); Trusting, gullible old Sultan Abdullah Ben Barka Ben Allah Ben Kasey today ordered the Turkish armies, long whetting their sabres for Russian blood, to "forget old rivalries, bury old hatchets, and kill somebody else for a change." There were no immediate indications of the name of the next victim, but sources close to the Palace (i.e. a group of Drunks in a nearby Bar) indicated that the war slogan "you too"; had been revised to "Sail on, sail on":

MECCA (11 April 1901); Through every cobbled street in this legendary city is jam-packed with faithful pilgrims crushing each other on their way to shrines, monuments, and ancient relics, sidling to and fro from shop to house to back alley to minaret in their driving quest for holiness and eventual acceptance as faithful followers who would do anything for the Master, be it hot; cold; lukewarm, or Summer Solstice, especially the latter, which in Arabia is the time of utmost heat, the temperatures, registering on the Japanese thermometer nailed to the wall of the University of Riyadh by British diplomats, who apparently had nothing better to do one day while gulping down a bottle of Arabian soda pop, Orange Al-Crush, obtained from the pump-driven cooler near the entrance to the Library, which boasts nearly thirtysix thousand volumes, mostly in English, on such widely divergent subjects as the Psychiatric study of the prehistoric Triceratops, a Dinosaur who roamed the Earth millions upon millions of years before Man, in one of the many methods prescribed by biologists, Anthropologists, and/or Theologians, none of whom seem to agree with their Counterparts, despite the extensive theoretical and practical correlation attempted by the late Swiss scholar Dr. Erno Heiller, formerly Szigetii Professor of Anthropology at the University of Basel, a man who spent his entire life (1846-1911) delving in depth into the mysteries of life as we know it, with great reference to the
