

ATLANTIS

This is ATLANTIS, a journal of postal Diplomacy, edited and published solely by Christopher Schleicher, 1535 Dartmouth Lane, Deerfield, Illinois 60015. ATLANTIS carries the variant games 1966 AIac, 1967 Vat, 1967 Mab; plus the regular game 1970 C. There are currently games of Imperialism XV, Imperialism VIII, and Princeps open; fees are given in issue # 20.

Subscriptions to ATLANTIS are $1.00 for 10 issues.

"Winter 1004"

1967 Mab

Princeps

HISPANIA: No change (3).

PONTUS: Builds A Trapezus (13).

AFRICA: Retreats F Tcn (sc) to GVal. No builds (14)

EGYPT: No change (6). Charles Welsh has decided to resign from the game due to a lack of time. Peggy Gemignani and W. Gerald White are each asked to please submit "Spring 1005" moves for Egypt.

The "Spring 1005" moves are due 12 May 1970.

If the Congress in its infinite wisdom decides to increase the rates for first class mail, I will have to increase the subscription rates to around 12-15¢ per issue. You can resubscribe now at $1.00 for 10 issues, or enter an ATLANTIS game.

In the second regular Diplomacy game, I have six players so far, George Patton, Ricky Thompson, P.M. Gaylord, Ronald Garland, Gary Gygax (?), and George Inzer. Only one more needed to fill this game -- anyone else like to join?

*

There are, of course, openings for anyone interested in the variant games. One game of each type is presently open.

I also need substitute players for all games. I will send maps and rules to anyone who needs them.

Copies of the House Rules printed in issue #15 are available to anyone who needs a set.

1966 AIac

GAMESMASTER BECOMES VERY UPSET!!!!!!!
(at himself)

A couple of errors in the "Fall 1913" moves have come to my attention. First, the English A Arg--Bol did fail as I indicated, however, it was not dislodged as I incorrectly noted.

Also, a conflict between sets of House Rules occurred in the German/Italian moves. I mistakenly ruled according to my (ATLANTIS) House Rules, when I should have remembered the EREMHON House Rules. Since this game was begun under Rod's rules, I will not change the rules in mid-game.

The moves:

Italy:	F Bel--Hol	A Bur--Bel
	F NthS (S)	F Bel--Hol
Germany:	F Hol (S)	A Ruh--Bel
	A Ruh--Bel

This is an example of the so-called "Miller's Rule" which says that a unit which has been dislodged may not give support. The German F Hol has been dislodged, so its support order fails, and A Ruh fails to gain Bel, being stood off by the Italian A Bur--Bel.

Under ATLANTIS House Rules, the support would have been valid because the attack would not have "come from the side" as the Rules for Diplomacy require (page 4).

I erred in not remembering the EREMHON rules, and now Germany (Payne) is required to send in the retreat for F Hol (Helgoland Bight or...), and one more removal, since Hol is lost to him as a supply center (and goes to Italy).

I have really been making mistakes in this game. Perhaps I should do this first before the other (easier) games. I'll have to avoid the alcohol also...speaking of which, I have some of Larry Peery's favorite drinks to pass along to you. I have not tried all of them yet, but eventually....

White Russian: made in a Mai Tai glass with lots of Vodka, just a bit of Kahlua, and lots of cream. A nice social drink that doesn't leave you gassed.

Chivas Regal and water, tall; for serious drinking. A single ice cube, fill the glass to about $\frac{1}{2}$ " with Chivas, and toss a dash of soda in it. Three or four will kill a horse. /But oh so good!/
/

F-310: Creme de Menthe (2 shots) in a Mai Tai, with just a bit of Kahlua, on ice. Tastes like Scope.

White Russian and a Brandy Alexander. Not too heavy on the Kahlua, has about 4 shots, served in a Mai Tai glass or three or four Alexander glasses. Two of these and no more driving. But so mild, tastes like a chocolate malt. However, has about 3,000 calories. Yummy.

My favorite is Southern Comfort and 7-Up. Put about 1-1½" in a water glass, add an ice cube or two, fill to level desired with 7-Up or Swiss Cream, and relax. It calms the disposition and eases weary muscles.

Then there's always the good ole' Screwdriver: Vodka and orange juice mixed 50-50 in a water glass or tumbler for those in a hurry. To get vitamin C....

Anybody else like to share their favorite recipies?

Moves for 1970 C and 1967 Vat are due 5 May as previously announced to the players.

*

I have enclosed the first of the maps for Imperialism XV. A different map or two will be sent out with each issue of ATLANTIS until the set is completed. Each person who enters this game now open will also receive a full set of maps and rules (at one time).

Anybody interested in an anonymous game? All mail sent through me...?
