NEWS OF THE WORLD

HISPANIA: WHITE WOLF STALKS BARBARIANS

THE CAMP OF LUPUS ALBINUS: As winter approaches the land of the Chatti, the Imperial legions are preparing to go into winter cantonment, following their tremendously successful campaign through Terra Alpae and into the barbarian homeland itself. The main strength of the Chatti was smashed at Putridi, during the summer, and Albinus followed up his victory by laying waste the countryside and putting all of the barbarian villages to the sword.

BLECHUS: The capital of the Chatti, besieged by Roman forces, still holds out. The Queen of the Chatti, Katrina (or, as she is known to her intimates, Chatti Kathy), lies in her boudoir, waiting to surrender to Lupus Albinus. "But he must come in person, mein herrn," she explained to Roman ambassadors come to secure her submission. "He may be first in war, but is he first in peace?" she asked. Well, not exactly first, perhaps (given Katrina's checkered career), but odds are that the old man will be panting up to Blechus any day now.

Note to LAKONIA: An unordered unit, if dislodged, is /A/ in accordance with House-Rule 9. Your A Hlpa, for which you wrote no order, did not, therefore, have the option of retreat. NEWS OF THE WORLD

ATTIKA: PEERIKLES PEERIBLAH PEERIGABBLE PEERİYAK PEERIBABBLE PEERIFROTH PEERİYECH

ATHENS: After a closed session of the Athenian Council of Greater and Lesser Peeristes, Peerikles announced the Council had voted to endorse Lysander of Lakonia for the office of Supreme Peericrat of the Hellene Union. "There is no doubt that Lysander would make a fine Peericrat. He has all the qualifications needed: intelligence, good looks, a pleasing personality, and an ability to persuade people to work his will...." /and the ability to stab Peery.../.

BOIOTIA: SARAS ALLENUS SHOWS BECOMING MODESTY...

THEBES: Thus did the maid Saras Allenus answer Lysander: "I thank thee, noble Lysander, for your offer of marriage. Am I then worthy of your attention, oh beloved of Zeus? The fame of thy deeds is spread from Corinth to Troy. I am humbled by even the mention of your name. As for myself, I am but a servant of the gods, and seek to rule my people with justice and love. Far too young am I to enter marriage with one as honored and famed as yourself. I am filled with respect and awe at the prospect of your presence in Thebes and will welcome you with a happy heart. Yet there is no love and without love there can be no marriage."

LAKONIA: ...AND NO WONDER!

EURIPONTID PALACE: The war King has returned from Boiotia, where he was courting Saras Allenus, the Rose of Doria. The Daily Castoff obtained this exclusive interview with him immediately following his return.

Daily Castoff: How did you fare in your courtship of Saras Allenus?

Lysander: Frankly, I thought I had won her hand, and was preparing to announce our marriage. And then, one day, I saw her exercising in the gymnasium, bereft of shift and makeup--Saras Allenus is a man!

Daily Castoff: I don't understand...

Lysander: Saras Allenus is, in fact, Geri Jaks, in drag...

Daily Castoff: What was your reaction to this discovery?

Lysander: Well, I'm as Greek as the next man, but --Geri Jaks? I fled from the gymnasium, vaulted onto Pairna, and galloped away--which will help to explain my present nakedness, in case you're wondering.

Daily Castoff: Not at all, sire. It's becoming quite popular, I understand, since the arrival of that English woman."

Lysander: Godiva? Where is she now?

Daily Castoff: She can usually be found riding about Sparta, totally naked, around noon...

Lysander: I will look into this matter myself, later. You will excuse me, as I have a meeting with Hyperbolus and the Twelve. It seems that our flighty and unpredictable ally, Epiros, has undergone another change in domestic and foreign policy, and attacked our garrison in Hellopia. We must decide whether to regard this as an act of war, in which case Epiros will be put to the sword, or a mistake on the part of the new government, in which case we will gladly cede Hellopia back to Epiros, now that they seem capable of defending it themselves.

Daily Castoff: Did you hear of the recent announcement of Ionia?

Lysander: Well, Boiotia is pretty primitive--mud-walled cities and bachanalia, but an Athenian galley put into port while I was there, bringing the latest news. Lakonia applauds the bravery of Ionia, and will prepare a War Chest for the Ionians--the only problem lies in transporting it across seas infested with Athenians....

Daily Castoff: Does this indicate a change of policy toward Attika?

Lysander: Not necessarily; but Peerikles has been making some strange noises recently, and refuses us passage north, into Boiotia. In addition, the Peerisites and their Phallic Cult have been whipping up anti-Lakonian sentiment all over Attika, and an Athenian military expedition has reportedly landed at Syracuse. We must make some unmistakable gesture that will indicate to Athens our resolve to maintain what is ours.

IMPERIALISM XI

1967AGbd--1967AIbd

These games have not proved very satisfactory, either for the players or for the Gamesmaster. In response to pleas about "What can you do about this?" I have decided to substitute new games for these, if the players want it. A letter explaining this, and a ballot, are enclosed. Meanwhile, please note the following personnel changes, in case the games continue:

1967AGbd: ARMENIA is now played by K. V. Wittmann.

1967AIbd: CARTHAGE is now played by K.V. Wittmann. ROME is now played by Bill Haggart.

If the vote is against cancellation, we will resume play next issue.
