BORIS THE SPIDER

A Journal of Duplicitous Doings,
Raw Power, and Naked Greed
"Oh, what a tangled web we weave
When first we practice to deceive!"
--Sir Walter Scott--

(#270)

7 Feb 08

Happy Valentine's Day!

With neither gamestarts or any game finishes, headline material is a bit scarce, so I'll throw in a bit of historical trivia. St Valentine's Day got its name from St Valentine, a Roman priest who was martyred around 270 AD, and who's feast day is celebrated on 14 Feb. The practice of sending love notes goes back much further in Roman custom and was part of the worship of the goddess Februata Juno. It could just as easily have been called St Celsus Day or St Nararius's Day had either of these early martyrs been assigned 14 Feb as a feast day. Wouldn't have the same ring to it though, would it?

We have up to four pages empty and awaiting a new gamestart. Candidates are WIZARD'S QUEST, GUNSLINGER, PUERTO RICO, and, HISTORY OF THE WORLD. Sign up soonest or volunteer to run a game yourself.

IMMEDIATE OPENINGS:

WIZARD'S QUEST: Need 1 to 3 more. Would like to use ACTS.

2007B

MINAS MORGUL: The southern Russian flank is beginning to crumble against the combined Austro-Turkish attack and both her northern centers are in peril. The French and English appear to have brokered an accommodation, which doesn't bode well for encircled Germany. And what to make of the Italians and their A BOH?

EMBASSY BEAT

England to France: So Sorry about the Belgium thing (those Chocolates and waffles are too distracting) but it was all Germanys fault. No hard feelings, pip pip

CONSTANTINOPLE: Due to the much higher temperatures our forces are experiencing due to global warming, the Sultan has directed each of our armies to move north to find cooler climates. Maybe we can return when we experience a nuclear winter....

BORIS WORLD PRESS REVIEW

London Times: The PM today put blame on Germany for the unfortunate excursion into Belgium by the English army last year. "It was not our intention to cause problems for the vacationing French forces by occupying all the best Belgium hotels (forcing the French to return to the mostly 2 star hotels in the providence they had come from) but we have found that Germany exaggerated the severity of the storms in the North Sea-causing the Home fleet to divert to Belgium with the Army aboard and also drawing the Northern Fleet into Norway and off station and away from Scotland. We have not determined why Germany would wish to distract English forces thusly but suspect nefarious plans be afoot. Her Majesty wishes to a sure our French neighbors we harbor no hostilities and despite our new Fleet commissioned in London and word of a new French Fleet in Brest still will honor our pledge not to place military forces in the English Channel (and will also pledge not to put fleets in a "French Channel" if one is ever named) as a show of good faith. We see no reason to bring up the past like that Waterloo adventure or the Spanish Peninsula actions--all old water over the dam,wot?) and wish to maintain friendly relations with the Republic."

Moscow Free Press: The Tsar has formally reprimanded the Russian diplomatic corps, stating that never in Russia's history has the Rodina been so poorly served. The Tsar also invites all European nations to send envoys to discuss the developing situation in central Europe.

Neue Zuercher Zeitung: We will fight the French wherever we find them. Europe will be better off without France. Ask the Germans. Attributed to unnamed English diplomat.

CLASSIFIEDS

Serbian Gazette, p 53: Drunken Italian soldiers were rounded up and sent back to Italian authorities. What they were doing in Austro-Hungarian territory is being investigated.

Papacy to France: no real problems, just the nature of the game.

Papacy to Austria: you and I should talk, as we could push together, should you want to...

Army OTR to Messina : Hello. I love Stilian summers.

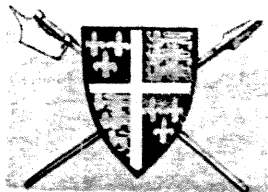

Venice to Austria: I am giving you this chance to back out of Car, sla. Use this turn and next to organize your defence.

Venice to France : You are on your own fighting Austria for a turn or 2 to see if he cares about his homeland or does he care about Car, Cro. How can we work against the menacing middle monster of Flo/Pap?

Venice to Flo/Pap- I only mean the above in the nicest terms possible.

Venice to GM- How many cities does a player need to win this scenario. The variant rules do not say???
