(TURKISH PRESS) THE ANARCHISTS #5

They were awakened by the silence. The train had stopped and the absence of that steady rhythm had returned them from the realm of morpheus. There was another sound though...far off in the distance...like thunder. Others in the car had begun to voice their speculations as to their whereabouts and the reason for the delay. But soon they heard voices outside giving orders and the huge boxcar door slid open. Out they sprang in two's and three's to form a long column of march alongside the tracks. The order was then given and off they went toward an unknown destination. Fritz asked Johann what time it was and out came his trusty pocketwatch. The gold watch gleamed brightly in the sun. It was just past 3:00 in the afternoon.

They marched through a desolate countryside ravaged by war. The French, in their haste to retreat, had destroyed everything they couldn't carry off.

The sun was hot and soon they were drenched in their own sweat. Hundreds of marching feet kicked up clouds of dust that parched their throats and caked on their skin and clothing. Onward they stumbled toward the "distant thunder" that was not thunder at all, but artillery. They were marching to the sound of the guns.

Although he'd never been there, Fritz figured that they must be somewhere in the (Turn to page 6 of the white pages)

A REPORT ON THE EANET/
TICHO WEDDING ET AL

by Wolf Pasternak
CHICAGO--You might call the Star/McDonald wedding elegant; you might say the Bush/Osuch nuptials were homey and happy. In either case you'd have to call the Ticho/Fanet affair of this past week something else again.

Here we had a round of parties in showers, including an unmentionable bachelor's bash at the Allerton, and a rehearsal dinner for 200 that ~~xxxx~~ culminated with the grand affair, the wedding, a black tie optional formality, at the Drake Hotel.

Here you had stellar lights in the wedding party: Rich King, Brian Davis, and Phil Rogers. (King even later in the evening proved the truth of the words in that song about Chicago: "he even danced with his wife" and complained about the aches in his calves the next day). Here you had a rabbi cracking jokes during the ceremony ("Dave knows the meaning of long suffering as he goes into this marriage. He's been following Chicago sports teams for some time."). Here you had a six piece band plus singer that played to one in the morning, and a desert table that would've even been too much for Gillespie. And here too you had Jack Brickhouse giving a toast to the happy couple (Take that as you will). All in all, it was quite an affair, with Bud and Sis even getting an invitation to visit Paul and Dorry the next time they're in Washington (Paul said the last time he was in Chicago FDR died and he thought that quite a ~~xxx~~ coincidence since Reagan was undergoing major surgery this time). Judy Rosen was so enthused she tried to enroll four or six other couples into splitting the ~~xxx~~ cost of a lets-do-it-again marriage ceremony just to have a pre-tense for partying. And not everybody wore black ties either.

BOOB TUBE BLITHERINGS

by Gary Boob

Hey, media fans. "Kup" did it again this past week, mentioning the Cubs' great catcher, JODY HARRIS!

Anyway, in the real world, JIMBO BENES reports the ~~w~~ switcheroo over at WEDN-AM from typewriters to computers is going as expected...both computer printers have broken down! (See BOOB page six)

A Mind is a Terrible Thing to Lose
QUOTABLE: SPORT magazine on Wrigley Field: "...if you had to see one last game before dying, you'd want day baseball in this ~~p~~ graying but priceless heirloom..."

COCCIA'S BARBECUE LAW: Regardless of where you sit, the wind will always blow the smoke from a barbecue in your face...

KALDENAR: Scott Slonim celebrates his natal day on the 23rd; Andi Wiley does likewise on the 26th...
FIVE YEARS AGO IN THE STAR:

--Jim Gillespie was leading the purge of the GOP of members of the John Birch Society for being too moderate...

--A report from Buena Park had it that Jim Benes was buying the Chicago TRIBUNE for an undisclosed amount plus two forwards from a Yukon basketball club. The STAR noted that Col McCormick would be turning over in his grave...

--In sprotz, Devil's Slide held an 8 game lead over New York in the UBA...

NEW STAR CONTEST
(AND IT'S CRUDE!)

by Gil

Inspired by the style and content of the news reports regarding the Presidential Intestines, the STAR is sponsoring a contest to keep our readers' thoughts focused in the right place.

The rules are simple. How are your intestines? Using them much these days, are you? When was the last time they worked for you? Chances are, even if you can remember the answer to that last question, you don't recall any of the details, which is really too bad. So, to show that we care just as much about guts as any other news organization, here's what we want you to do:

The next time your bowels move, move into action with them. First, save the result. It'll be needed for the ~~xxx~~ success of our contest. Second, squat right down while your recollection (and b.m.) are still fresh and write us a feature report covering your own little news event. (If you can provide us with a photo opportunity, so much the better). Be sure to go into graphic detail. Send in your essay for judging and the chance to win a wonderful prize.

Entries will be judged on the basis of colorfulness and human interest, as well as overworking of cliches and misuses of words. Any entry using the word "media" as a plural noun will be disqualified. (See GROSS page 6)

Now that you've been thoroughly inundated and disgusted by radio, television, and newspaper coverage of the recent operation on President Reagan, it's our turn. Fasten your seatbelts and hang on for the STAR'S EXCLUSIVE

P R E S I D E N T I A L P O L Y P C O V E R A G E !

We Don't Let Good Taste Stand In Our Way!

THE REAMING OF THE PRESIDENT: FIRST HE GOT IT FROM CONGRESS, NOW HE GETS IT FROM HIS DOCTORS!!!

Reagan's operation

The President hadn't lost his now-famous sense of humor. After the operation, his first words to doctors were, "Up yours!"

Yes, the STAR has obtained an exclusive photo of former President Jimmy Carter retrieving the cantancerous clump from President Reagan's keester!

Doctors said, "Carter was just right for the job. He's used to being behind." Roslyn seconded the notion!

Added one medic, "If Reagan were awake and knew a Democrat was in there, he would have uh, shit!"

So you don't get confused, we've labeled the polyp.

(right) "We measured his brain while we were in there," noted Dr. Ziggy Schwartz. "And thank God, it's bigger than a walnut," he added as he shows approximate size of Reagan brain.

(left) Would-be comedian and Presidential colon surgeon I.B. Wizenheimer cracked-up nurses and fellow medics when he smirked, "The operation nearly rectum!"

VINTON RIPPED!!!

BROOKFIELD--Saying, "He deserves the title of Polish Prince," zoo grounds hen Gail Gorski says, "Only a Pollack like Bobby Vinton would adopt a zoo animal like a Wizent (wee-zent). What a dupa," noted the Gorkstress. "All that animal does is breed and fling shit. Sometimes I feel sorry for guys like my husband and Rich Mylak. Somewhere down the line, they're related to this dude."

The usually mild-mannered STAR notable cut lose with the barbs after Vinton paraded around the zoo, "singing polkas and blowing farts," according to observers.

STAR POLL RESULTS

CHICAGO--In other animal news, by a near unanimous ballot, STAR readers voted for a cleaner America this past week, leaving the problem of Boots 'n Fluff, STAR mascots, to the genius of Alan Peters' former landlord.

"All I did was leave some brillo pads lying around on the floor, and before you know it, it was was over," offered Les Fleas. If you recall, Peters' landlords' life was recently chronicled in the film "The Exterminator."

Below, a workman cleans up after another day's hard work at the Les Fleas Inhumane Institute. It's enough to make you choke!

Noted model & actor, "Everydog" Dies at 13

Internationally know to TV & movie buffs, Spot the Wonder Dog succumbed recently to an ailing heart, after watching Jeffrey Lyons and Neil Gabler "butcher" his show, Sneak Previews. He was laid to rest at Lassie Lawns.

Spot left Sneak Previews in a salary dispute in 1981, claiming channel 11 was offering him, "a bare bones deal."

"A year later we took our cue from the dog and cut out," said Gene Siskel, who now co-hosts a similar show, "At the Movies," with Roger Ebert.

"He was a credit to his race," barked Ebert.

As we bow our heads in remembrance, let us paws.

Press from Game#27, the Anarchists vicinity of Munich. Judging from the sun's angle they were headed west, apparently to repel another attack by the French. The war he had single-handedly begun had now come home to him.

The sun was sinking lower in the sky and it burned their eyes. The dust and heat were relentless as many men fell out of the column prostrate from heat exhaustion. Johann uncorked his bottle of wine. He drank deeply trying to clear the dust from his throat and passed the bottle to Fritz, who did the same. Once again the soldiers around them begged for their share. Fritz surrendered the bottle to a sea of grasping hands and it was gone.

He had not intended to "join" the army much less get into a battle. He & Johann discussed their options quietly as they shuffled along.

The weary troops were finally assigned a position in the reserve just after nightfall. The battle had gone well and the French had been repulsed. Once again ~~XXXX~~ Munich was safe...

It was sometime later when Fritz & Johann slipped away into the darkness of the night. They were challenged by a sentry, but knew the correct password: "latrine."

They kept to the woods and fields and eventually stopped at what remained of a farmhouse. A search turned up some old work clothes into which they quickly changed and "Voila," they were Deter and Wolfgang again. They set off to the east on foot, leaving the army behind them. Wolfgang just couldn't believe that "deserting" had been so easy.

Meantime good news from TED TURNER who sez he's got a spot for RICH KING should Turner take over CBS. "Ya'll know the floors always need sweepin'," drawled Turner.

ABC's RON GORSKI sez despite what you read in other papers, the company is laying off, "mostly bean counters." The third-rate network must have a lot x of beans, to be laying off 350 people! Gorski tells me he's x safe, has a vote of confidence from the network. You and I know, that spells D-O-O-M!

Till next time, happy televiewing!

The first prize winner will receive the products of the labors of all the other entrants (which we had you so carefully ~~save~~, remember?). Each of three second prize winners will receive a one-pound package of nice, fresh, hand-scrapped Reagan brand chitterlings. No entries can be returned, and all entries recieved will be used to line the Benes family bird cage or litter box.

Entries should be sent (along with your contributions to the first prize pool) to the STAR scatological editors, Ron Gorski and Rich Mylak. No entries will be accepted after (and this contest will end upon) the first m to occur of the following:

(a) the STAR publishing staff returns from an impending and richly deserved vacation; or

(b) the TV networks stop inundating us with a steady parade of physicians explaining why, in light of Ronnie's medical situation, each of us should submit, not less frequently than monthly, to be sodomized by an instrument that looks, behaves and feels like a garden hose, for the enjoyment and unconscionable profit of the medical profession.

By the way, all entries ~~xxxx~~ should be handwritten since we know first hand the difficulty of taking a typewriter into the john.

FROM WPR: Samia Gamal is perhaps the Arab world's most famous belly dancer, appearing in 83 films--including ALI BAB A AND THE 40 THIEVES--and on stages in Egypt, Jordan, and Saudi Arabia. "At 63," writes Rufaida Mikdadi in the monthly MIDDLE EAST "she is still lithex and attractive, with beautifully manicured hands that are extraordinarily expressive." Her trademark is bare feet.
