HINSDALE--We have a request for a concession of the game to England.
A unanimous vote is required, and silence counts as acquiescence.

LONDON--France made fun of the GM and ~~it~~ has vanished. Germany made fun of the GM and we see his fate. Who's next?

AUSTRIAN PRESS TO MOSCOW (OOPS SEVASTOPOL?!)--Can you not understand that this game requires teamwork. Why would you deprive US of a build merely to gain a center for YOU. I cannot accept this as proper behavior. The only question in this game is whether or not you will survive ~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~ Germany. "Let greed not be your master, but rather the welfare of your team." (Vincent Lombardius circa 832 AD)

AUSTRIAN PRESS TO LONDON--Well, this is two or three moves more moves than I think you've had. Now that I've ripped it with Russia, can you do it?

HINSDALE--We also have a call for an Austrian-English-German-Russian draw. Again the vote must be unanimous to pass, please let the GM know how you feel on both matters before us.

DIPPY Game #13, the Greene, 1978CQ, Spring, 1905:

HINSDALE--For all of your information, the latest letter I received from Allan Calhaver takes a neutral approach, citing arguments on both side of the controversy with which this game recently became embroiled. Let us let the matter drop at that.

CONSTANTINOPLE--Flying in the face of Turkish public opinion, the Sultan declined to say anything which the French might find insulting. Instead, His Holiness politely requested the immediate surrender of Italy and France.

TUNIS--Fleet commander Mirza Azkar stated that anyone (with the exception of Italy) who attacks France is fighting on the side of the One True God, and could thus avoid His Wrath at the hands of the Righteous.

TURKISH ADVERTISEMENT--Ever want to give those hardworking men in the military a vacation? Well, now you can, if you're the lucky winner of the Parisian Holidays Contest!

All you have to do to enter is explain in 25 words or less why you think Frenchmen have no sense of humor. What could be easier?

The winner of this contest with the army of his choice will be guests of the Turkish government in Paris as soon as ~~KK~~ circumstances permit for as long as he wants.

Send those entries right away to : Parisian Holiday Contest

Watch for the upcoming Roman Festival Sweepstakes!

NAPLES--Angered at the presence of Turkish spittons, somewhat resembling ~~k~~ vessels, in the Ionian, the Italian Government has ordered instant retaliation and the recapture of Tunis. Meanwhile our troops wander aimlessly towards Vienna.

NAPLES--Angered at the presence of Turkish vessels (a Turkish vessel is a lot of ball) in our beloved Ionian Sea, the Italian fleets dispatch themselves (these are called dispatched fleets) to save Tunisia from the Turkish warmongers. "Let them get away with talking about our friends, the French, that way, will we?"

HINSDALE--To those of you who may be new to Diplomacy or this publication, here is the legend for interpreting the above: Underlined moves are unsuccessful. CAPITALS indicate the final resting place of the unit.

QUANTIUM--The great and wise Abu Kalief, while on vacation in Metropolis, USA, today, was interviewed by the Daily Planet's ace reporter, Clark Kent. In the interview Kalief, The Humble, was asked many questions ranging from his views on Russian vodka to the Italians chance of winning the World Cup. A partial transcript dealing with his nation's foreign policy follows:

KENT: Your Excellency, do you feel that the great nation of Austria-Hungary holds any idea of imperialistic expansion into the Balkan states directed specifically towards you?

KALIEF: No, I feel that the Austrians must first guarantee their security in dealing with more prominent problems.

KENT: But, would that not be easy to accomplish when the leaders of Russia and Italy are at odds, and are finding it very difficult to ever trust each other again?

KALIEF: It seems that one of them is expecting justice. Russia has not yet realized that the supreme body has never been able to hand down a ruling on whether or not Italy was in breach of a contract. But you must remember innocence before proof of guilt.

KENT: So you are saying that Russia and Italy may do something.

KALIEF: I am only commenting that anything is possible.

KENT: Including the idea of Turkey controlling Greece?

X KALIEF: Yes; definitely!!
