Hello!

Here I am again - and now for the news - General Computer it is!

For those of you who might have forgotten, General Computer is a Cambridge based company that makes video arcade games and home video games. Few of you will be surprised at this choice. Some of you wrote and said they would have trouble believing any other decision.

I have gotten right into things, and I am enjoying it tremendously. Granted, I have only been there for two weeks, but the thrill is still fresh. I've been spending 50-60 hour work weeks, but coming home with much more energy than before. I think I've found Nirvana!

The only unfortunate thing is I'm not likely to increase my involvement with Dot Happy. I will have no problem maintaining my present effort, but I do not expect to see it increase. Sorry guys, but fun is fun!

A few points of interest in this issue. The first is that this is coming out a few days late. I apologize for this, but my new job has offered the possibility of a better schedule for printing this up, so I'm trying it out. If it works, I will adjust the normal deadline to Friday or Saturday and make it official. If not, we'll keep the Thursday deadline.

The last note is this. I'm out of standbys. This means that all DH games are now on a no-standby basis. I will change this if some of you enlist.

Fall 1904

London-Paris: I must be thinking tactics. You are correct of course and, as you can see, I agreed with your choice.

Fra-England: WELCOME BACK ULIII

Superman Press: I pick the "Fighting Irish" by 6 points over USC. I pick France over Italy, backed by Austria, by a landslide. I'll Pick Turkey nose if he stays out of Naples. Oops --- lost my identity??

Wells Street Journal: France Franc plummets as national treasury is depleted in bet against Italy. More later ...

Germany-Superman: Apples in Pig-German means "No Way Jose".

Germany-Austria: Stop yawning and help me.

Junipero Serra: 1981AT

Fall 1906

Deadline for the Russian retreat. Winter 06, and Spring 07 is Thursday 23 Sep. Two requests will separate the seasons.

New Turkish leader starts off with an aggressive posture, only to find English fleets slipping in from behind. Austria in the doldrums. Russia trades with England and Germany. France continues it's underground resistance movement!!

Turkey (Noble): home, Bul, +Ser, -Gre (5) No Change;

Deadline for the Russian retreat, Winter 06, and Spring 07 is Thursday 23 Sep. Two requests will separate the seasons.

F-GM: Boy were you right on this one - a good stab and well timed. When anyone manages to get their moves in, they're fighting each other instead of putting together a common front.

GM-F: My comments stand. The stab was not well followed, but it was well executed. Note how England, who did follow his stab up well, has done.

Russia-Germany: Are you finished with your little boy games yet, or shall we fight this one to the death. I'm willing to bury the hatchet.

Russia-Austria: Please write!

Russia-Turkey: Please write!

Schlitz: England will soon be unstoppable. Germany played into his hands.

Switz-Schlitz: Sorry for renaming your by-line there, but only I can use Switz, press-line of GM's!

Deadline for the retreats and Winter 04 is Thursday 23 Sep.

World-Austria (via Liverpool): Risk - damn good game to play while killing a case of, shall we say, Molson's. Then you won't know whether you're getting obliterated or if you're the sole possessor of the Asian continent.

England-France: What, you worry?

England-France Part II. Actually, I was just making reservations for the Frankfurt Sheraton. Party of two, isn't that correct Bill?

World back to Germany (via London): I regret that I have but one quarter to play pinball with.

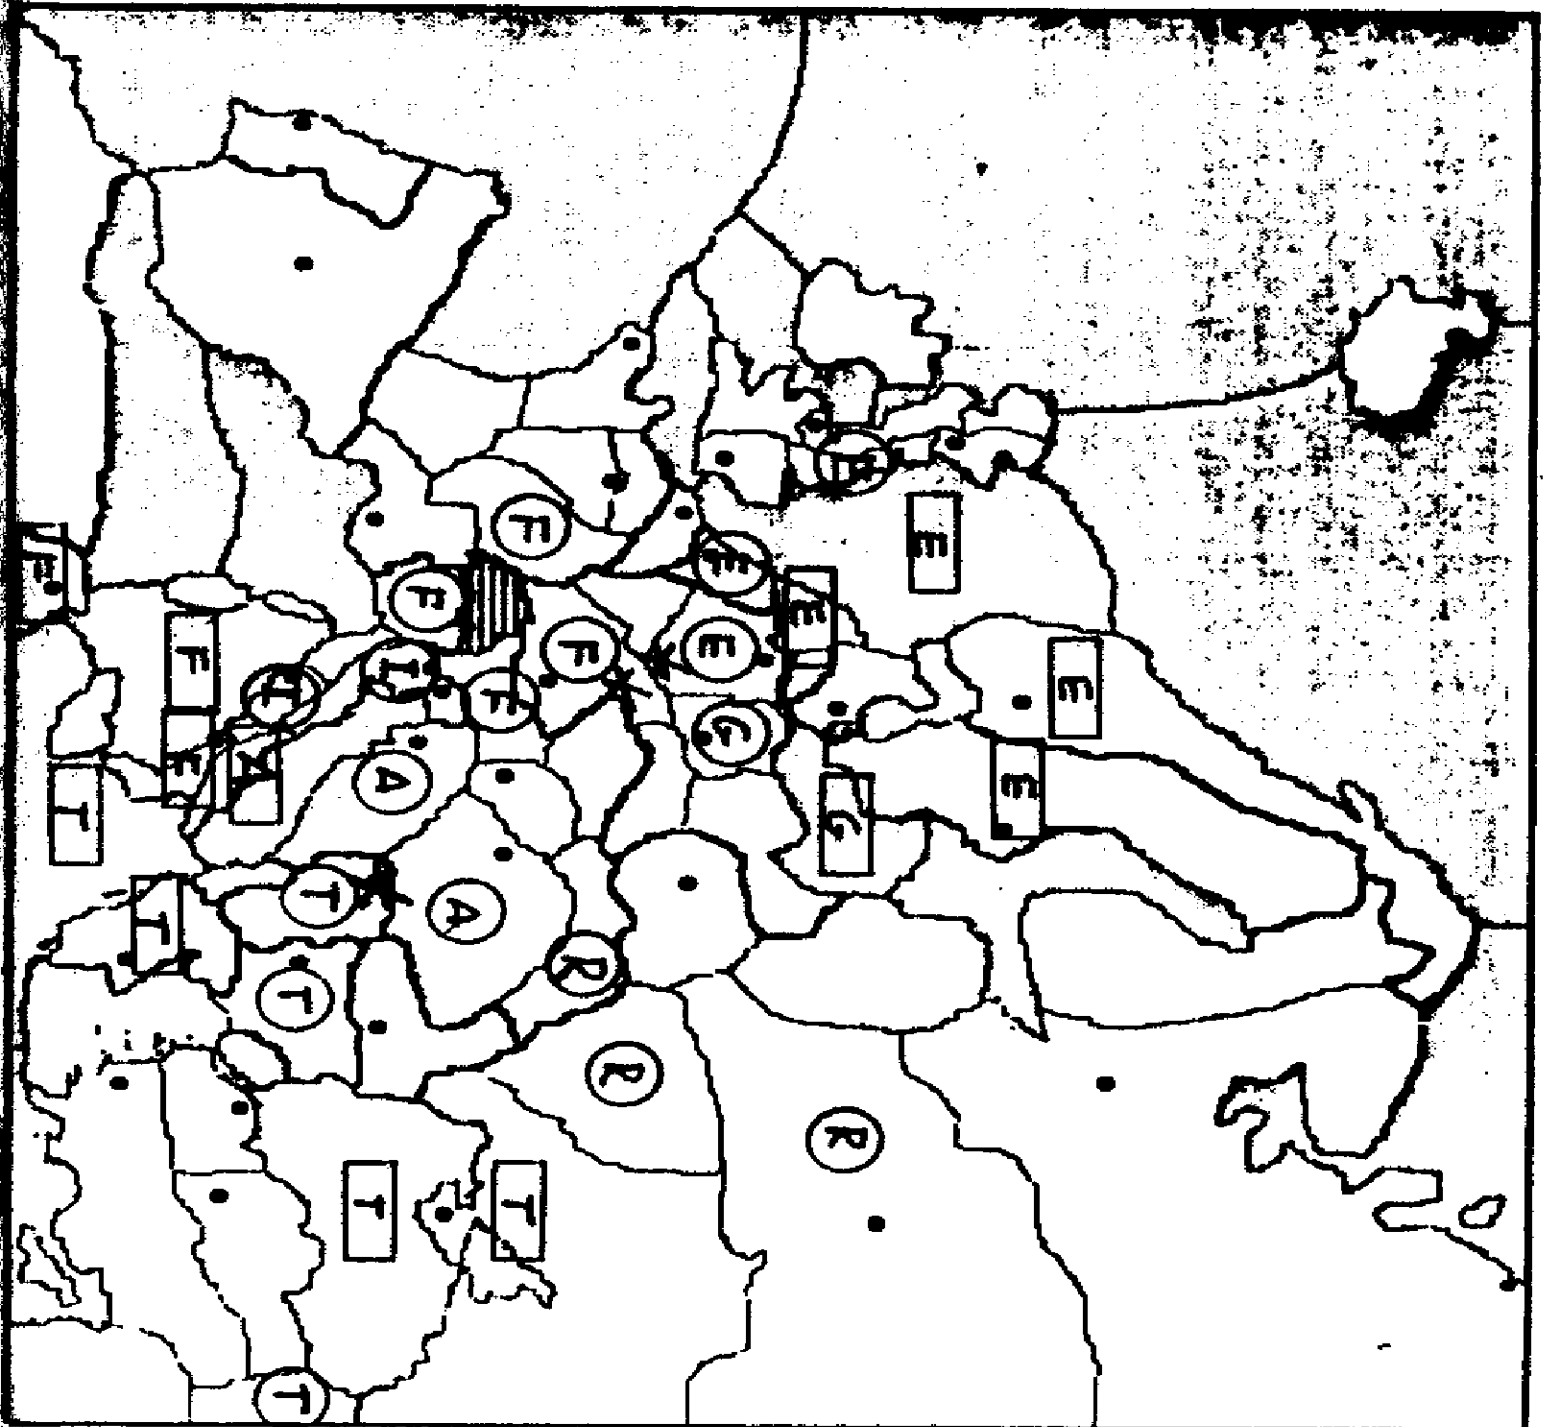

GM-England: Oh, yes, another fringe benefit of my job. We have lots of video games in house (both ours and our competitors). I get to play them all free.

Uli-Larry: Hey, don't look at me! I didn't propose that draw! I thought it was you. And yes, I agree with your feelings about the draw proposal and the new players. As for Russia ... thanks. It's the though that counts.

Fall 1904

Deadline for the retreats and Winter 04 is Thursday 23 Sep.

European leaders finally settle down. Rumors of illicit relationship of French and Englishman in German hotel arise! Germany crumbles, finally! Russia holds on for dear life!
