This may be a little late, and if it is, all the blame belongs to me. It seems I went on vacation - that is not the brightest thing that the BNC can do. So, it took a while to get things straightened out and to get this into the mail to Bill. I thank Bill for all his patience and as usual all of his help.

I have received a lot of information on the games which I listed as missing, lost, abandoned etc. And now I have found someone with more information. So, next issue will contain the results of my search for those games, including a few End of Game charts which were supplied by players and helpful people. (Mark, please note that I did not lose it!)

It really would make my job a lot easier if people would just make a note on the outside of their zine that a game start or end is inside. It really reduces the chance of an oversight on my part. One publisher sent me a $1 for a number, and it is a good thing that he did, otherwise I would never have found the game start, as it was I went through the zine 3 times before I found it. Some of you really hide those starts. And once again, let me remind all of you to please try and follow the format for End of Game stats. This month I actually had a publisher send me a blow by blow description of the game, not an end of game chart - but season by season moves. I am not about to start putting together End of Game Charts for publishers, Bill and I have enough trouble figuring out the ones we receive. By the way, the publisher who did this, and he'll know who he is, can thank John Caruso for putting together an End of Game chart. John is nicer than I am, I was going to mail the entire thing back to him.

At this time I would like to thank Ben Schilling for all his efforts in acquiring our Dip Con money from MDG. Yes, the hobby services have received the promised money. The BNC has $120 which I have chosen to leave with Ben Schilling. Ben will hold this money in reserve until such time as the BNC requires it. Thanks Ben.

Alphabet Lowe has sent a donation of $15.54 (don't ask) for one number. Thanks for this very generous donation.

Oh good, Half a page to fill, I don't suppose you want to hear about my Mets. So, I'll give you some general information on a few things that have come up recently.

I was asked if two players have the same last name, or a player and the GM have the same last name is the game irregular. The game is not irregular unless they are related. People are allowed to have the same last name. Rod Walker is GMing a game in which one of the players is also named Walker, the game is fine as Rod has stated that they are no relation. Another example was when I signed up for a game, only to find out that Charles Byrne had also signed up, the GM had a heart attack. Again no problem, we are of no relation.

I have also had a lot of questions on houserules this month. And no I can not declare a game irregular because a GM follows his houserules. I had three players complain within a matter of two weeks about three different GM's and three different sets of H.R.'s. Please read the houserules before you sign up for a game. One player did just that, and he asked the new GM to check his houserules out with me, there seemed to be some confusion over his houserule on retreating units. I read the houserules and assured both the GM and player that the rules were fine. My point is that I really don't mind helping out when I can, and that if you have any doubts on houserules you are setting up or going to be playing under feel free to ask my advice. That'll avoid a lot of problems later.

Have a nice summer, especially you Bill!!
