BNC COMMENTS

Everything Trade Policy

It is the policy of the current BNC to trade with any published zine on a yearly basis. That is, you send me one year's sub to your zine and you receive one year's sub for Everything. If you think this puts you at a disadvantage, you are absolutely correct. However, with the average zine cost at about 75c, it would be tantamount to ridiculous for this office to sub to every zine print—the cost would be well over $400.00. As it is, I take flak for just trading the way I do.

Remember, though, that if you publish a zine, no matter how large or small, and wish to trade for this publication, simply drop me a note...and a zine whenever you mail it.

Also, note that periodic checks are made to ascertain which traders are upholding their end of the bargain. If a trader is found in default, the trade is cut immediately.

Everything Liability

It was asked just how much liability Everything has towards its paid subscribers. The questioner, I believe, wished to see a more realistic accounting of the state of affairs for Everything. Sp...currently there is a sub liability of $133.74, this being before the accounts were/are charged for this current issue. At this point in time, it cannot be determined for this issue as this issue's price has not been set.

Petition

Michael Gibson and Andrew England have petitioned this office to start a series of Boardman Numbers for country of Australia. The Australian BNs will be tabulated from 1980 and organized along lines similar to ours. Michael G. will be the BNC of Australia with Andrew serving as his assistant. They will be assigned numbers either from the tail end of those assigned to North America or I shall give them one or two of the open blocks. To quote an old cliché: if anyone knows just reason why Michael should not be the Australian BNC, let him speak now or forever hold his peace.

PUBLISHER COMMENTS

Just a reminder, all sub fees should go to the BNC. Sending them to me just slows things down. No problem in sending them to me, just realize where they should go.

Also, any inserts should be cleared by the BNC. Please send any inserts on 8-1/2 X

It so I will be able to calculate the page total a little easier. Thanks everybody.

(BNC Comments - Thanks to the generous contribution for the PDO, the BNC office has regained its financial stability. This is a great relief to me since while I can donate the time to this office, $$ are very hard to come by right now. Perhaps I can now start digging into a project or two around here...)

PUBLISHERS COMMENTS II

Please note two inserts in this issue. The first is a Publishers Alert regarding games from 1981 that have not had their finishes reported to the BNC office. All zine publishers are asked to reprint this information in order to get these games and their results officially listed.

The second insert is in regard to the 1988 PDO Auction. As you can see from the financial statement above, this is a very important insert. All zine editors are encouraged to reprint this information and plug the auction wherever possible.

Thanks a lot.

PUBLISHER'S ALERT (1)

Last issue I laid the groundworks for this but see I must make myself clearer. I NEED!!! any publisher reading this to reprint the information listed so as to distribute it to the hobby in the most efficient manner possible. It doesn't have to be right away, but surely there will come a time when you need to fill a page, or perhaps take a break with some 'fill' material, whatever -- when these circumstances arise, please use my fill, because it is necessary to conduct the office of BNC. Thanks.

PUBLISHER'S ALERT

There are 15 games from 1981 that have not been reported as finished, abandoned, whatever; as it is reasonable to presume that in 7 (actual) years a game should be over, I need to find out if any of these listed games are NOT subject to being declared 'abandoned'. If you were in one of these, know about one of these, or know someone in one of these, please have them, you, they ... contact me so we can put these games to rest.

PDO AUCTION '88

It's that time of year again...

John Caruso and I seemed to make a success of the PDO Auction last year. A lot of money was raised without any hobby controversy. Consequently, John and I have decided to run this annual fund-raising event for hobby services for another year.

Last year we distributed $400 to Pontevedria, the ENC, the MNC, the Orphans Services and Ken Peel's hobby recruitment schemes. This year we would like to raise $600, but we will need your help.

OFFERS

We need offers of items to auction. We will take anything: last year we auctioned off subscriptions, game openings, boardgames, photographs, records, stamps, and hordes of old zines. The stranger the items the better! If you think it could sell, let us know. Don't send us the items. Just let us what is available and suggest a minimum bid if you wish. We need to know what is available by November 25th. Please send all offers to John.

BIDS

When all the offers are in, John will produce a booklet showing what is available. This will be sent to all editors and will be included in Diplomacy World. People send their bids to John and the highest amount pledged will secure the item. The deadline for bids will be on Lincoln's birthday, February 12th. Go raid those savings accounts!

MONEY

When the winning bids have been determined, the money should be sent to John. Like last year, the money will not be allocated by John or myself. Instead the money will be divided up by a five person committee made up of mostly experienced former custodians who know about hobby services. Although John and I run services, we will not be applying or accepting funds from this auction. In addition none of the committee members will be eligible for funds either. This is intended to minimise any possible conflict of interests.

PLUGS

Publicity is vital for the success of the Auction. We urge editors to give the auction a plug both now and when the bidding stage starts. If you would like copies of the Auction booklet please let John know as soon as possible. Ideas and suggestions are always welcome. We look forward to hearing from you!
