ENC (final) COMMENTS:

I would publically like thank all those with out whose help and general encouragement I could not have served in this position for 3 years, in any capacity. I do hope you will all provide continued support for Don and his effort to be a good ENC. I was asking what my first goal would be after leaving the ENC-ship, and I am happy to announce that my first goal is to walk into my bedroom and not have to step on, over, or around some type of hobby-related material. I will probably miss most the influx of a variety of zines as few sane people could ever afford to sub to 75 zines, and I will probably have to go to the library and get a book to place next to the toilet ... I will miss the least those hobby members whose real hobby is feuds/slander/and cheap spots interspersed by an occasional, though few and far between, game of Diplomacy... My greatest success: well, when I took this job I wanted to be as I had with Ter-ran, a ENC who was removed from the rampant fueding and immature cheapshooting(sic), functional, but one where an occasional potshot would have as much effect as shooting a shotgun in a bog. How effective this had been was brought to my attention a few months back when I signed up for a new GM and the GM asked if I could send the new game info on to the ENC.

//and with that I shall leave you in the capable hands of Don Williams//

QUESTION - from Paul Milewski:

- 1) What is the total amount of subscription balance? Are there any other ENC liabilities at the same moment? ENC: The current subscription liability, reflecting the adjustment for this issue is $77.87. The only other direct liability is the maintenance of the trading list, around 35-40 issues at any given moment. This would be in addition to the costs incurred running the specifics of the ENC job, which the ENC is required to do.
- 2) For the same moment, what is the total money under ENC control? ENC: This varies so much that giving one set figure would not apply -- check here in this issue for a statement regarding the transfer fund, add it to the balance now under expenses, for a current amount (sent to DW)
- 3) Your first question on negative figures ... you needed to clarify that more. (1) There were no financial statements issued from E62 (I believe) until I took over, which should have been a starting point (2). ...perhaps Don might wish to consider a CPA

Corrections

In 89AA, the Russian player should be Steve Adams; not Bob Udear.

In 89AB, the GM is Mark Wardell.

TRADES

Effective immediately all trades should be sent to Don Williams. One of Don's first tasks will be to reassure that he is getting all the trades he is supposed to and to cull the deadwood.

GAME STARTS AND FINISHES

As I closed up shop early this quarter (primarily to avoid the in-transit game records lost I had when I took over), some of your game starts/finishes may not be in this issue. Don't worry, they are not lost, just stuck in a 'hold' envelope which I will be sending to Don some time in July.

LITIGATION 1984IV End game Report

1984IV was run by Elmer Hinton (Kaissa). Elmer experienced long lapses in GMing that caused discontent with one or more of the players in this game. To make a long story short, it is the opinion of Melinda Holley, player, that the game was duely transferred to Bob Olsen and completed by him. It is the opinion of Elmer Hinton that the game ended and no transfer took place.

Opinion) This was a rather difficult one for me to work on and I was sorely tempted to withdraw due to personal bias; unfortunately there is, being BNC, no person to turn this over to. After some long, and I do mean long, time considering, it was my opinion that I needed to go specifically to each player and ask him/her whether a legitimate transfer took place, and this I have done. I currently have but two replies to my inquiry, both stating that they did agree to transfer the game to Bob Olsen. I do wish to give the players in this game a fair attempt at a solution -- I have found that anything lowers this case to the realms of fuedism in the highest degree.

Ruling) I am holding the 1984IV file from BNC-transferring. I have not heard from Geoffrey Richard(T), David Lang(G), or Mikel Petty(E). If I hear from these people and they affirm that a transfer took place by 9/30/89, I will submit to Don the end game report submitted from Bob Olsen's GMing. In any other case, I will submit to Don the results recorded by Elmer Hinton.

... and now some final LITIGATIONS ...

from Doug Acheson on behalf of the CDO)

From last year's Can Con, a list of the top 10 Canadian Players were created and the CDO wished to have a 'best of the best' game (of PEM Dip). Doug wished to run the game in his zine, Claestine Activities; this presents a problem in that one of the players involved was Doug's brother, Robert. Doug asked for special dispensation on relaxing the rule regarding relatives in a game to accomodate the running of this special Canadian game.

Opinion) I agree with Doug that given the nature of this game the fact that siblings were involved would not normally detract from the play of the game, but then that's me and I know quite a few pair of relatives that ^{could be} player-player or player-GM in a game and most definately not show favoritism towards one another. I am, however, also aware of the potentials for complaint should one of the pair do 'exceptionally' well, or should one of the pair's enemy's moves strangely (but legitimately) disappear. The reasons for setting this rule were sound and I see no reason to change them (1) nor for establishing the precedent of allowing the BNC the discretion of deciding when relatives are allowed in games together and when they are not (2).

First, just because relatives are in a game does not mean that the BNC will not issue a BN. He will do so, just as he will do so for requested 'local' games. What will happen is that when the game is listed as finished it will (in this case) bear the remark that the GM and one player, by name, were related. The term, 'irregular' is not employed by this BNC because the hobby seems to associate the word 'irregular' with the terms, 'misconduct' and 'fraud', which may be the case, but which may easy as easily not.

Second, I will not allow the BNC to establish a precedence of deciding when a rule is to be followed and when it will not. It's either all or none.

LITIGATION - Ruling on IWAP, a modified version of WAP

Charles Fargo(GM/The Last Resort) has asked me to rule on the regularity of Rob Boyd's variation of WAP, designated IWAP. IWAP rules are as follows:

- 1) Any unit that successfully moved in the previous season will hold in the season of NMR.
- 2) Any unit which supported a successful move in the previous season will support the successfully moved unit in place during the season of NMR.
- 3) Any fleet which successfully convoyed an army and is adjacent to that army will support it during the season of NMR Opinion) For those of you not around during the WAP decision, let me state that as a GM/player I abhor the concept of WAP. NMRs are a part of the PEM hobby (period). A GM who takes it upon himself to create moves is interfering with the game (period), even if he is doing so through the 'legal' accepted norms. As ENC, however, I felt I had to go with the general hobby feelings which was simply, 'why not try it and see what happens'. I, in effect, ruled against my own personal feelings.

The hobby has tried WAP and if our GM survey was an accurate reflection of hobby opinion then WAP is not a major trend (less than 5% of the GMs use it), but then it doesn't seem to be a hindrance either, though that may be ascribed to the small numbers of GMs using it.

The legitimacy of WAP is technically based on its (rather close) similarity to the 'standing order', and the fact that the GM does not create any order on the turn sheet. ((GM-created, or neutral, orders are by past hobby practice accepted no later than 1901 and only if all players are aware of what the neutral orders will be))

There is one major difference in IWAP and WAP; that is, the GM is creating, by house rules a condition where neutral orders may be used throughout the game. This is a problem I foresaw back when the original decision was made -- it's the old give someone an inch and they'll take a mile cliché; and it is why I wrote my "strange" ruling the way I did. To refresh you (all): "If you consider WAP to be nothing more than a statement that this season's orders are to be considered to be preliminaries for the next season, you are OK [read: no listing will be attached to the game finish]" "If you try to squeeze that extra mile out of WAP ... you are not." ... and people I am not going to contradict myself.

Ruling) Any game which is reported as using IWAP, after the standard 1901 grace period, will be listed as having "GM interference".

LITIGATION

The assignment of ENs and the completion of the games run by Roy Fleming in PEM

I was asked several times over my tenure why is a EN necessary. Of course the obvious reply is history -- we are after all nothing but a reflection of our past, looking towards a future. The Boardman Numbers, though simple in context, are the stuff of which this hobby is made (and why I detest those few petty ego-builders who try to work in opposition to the simple assignment of starts/finishes to blooter obvious low self-esteem problems, but that's another story). ENs serve a second function; they provide a place for a beleaguered player may go to when his games collapse, since the ENC knows who to go to and has a list of everyone's addresses from which to start the process of resurrecting lost games.

PEM ran 9 regular Diplomacy games, finished one, and then dropped out of sight, leaving the poor players hung out to dry.. It took an exceptionally long time to get the games from the point of total abandonment to a point where they could be revived. Unfortunately it took too long. Players moved, lost interest, or just thought the whole thing was a waste. Rod Walker and I tried to restart several of the 8 games to no avail. ... perhaps if the players were more into the hobby mainstream and knew where to go for help sooner, perhaps if the address list we finally used was in better shape ... who knows. We have then 9 lost games and quite a few disenchanted Diplomacy players.

Ruling) There will be no ENs issued to these games.

LITIGATION - An appeal of the Abandonment Status for 1987N

Randy Grigsby wished to appeal my notification that the game 1987N will be considered abandoned this issue, citing that there was sufficient interest on the part of the active players to warrant continuing the game, in contrast to the report I recieved from the USOS. I have taken it upon myself to contact those players listed to see if they wish to continue; to date, no one has replied. I will give the members of this game until 9/30/89 to reply to my inquirey, at which point they will have the option of placing their game in my zine or in one of those listed in last issue's GM survey. If I do not hear from sufficient people by 9/30/89 it is my ruling that the USOS's recommendation of abandonment stand. If Don does not hear from me by 10/05/89 regarding the game, 1987N, he is to list it as abandoned.

Thursday January 26, 1989

CC Les Casey

Dear Doug, thanks for the reply. You aren't the only one who writes on company letterhead, as you can see! I had held back on sending the 'zines list over the Gaming conference of CRS until I'd heard back from you, in case you had detected any errors in the information. No errors reported, so the list will go out!

I'm glad that you included me as a PBEM contact. People who already communicate by electronic mail would want to know my identity, so I present here a list of access-points for you to publish and/or retain. Les will probably volunteer the same sort of information.

SYSTEM NAME 	TELEPHONE NUMBER 	IDENTITY *****
I.P.SHARP MAILBOX	(416) 365-1466	CPR
CANADA REMOTE SYSTEMS	(416) 231-0538	CHRISTOPHER GREAVES
ROSEMEDIA	(416) 226-8260	CHRISTOPHER GREAVES
COMPUTING CANADA ONLINE	(416) 497-5263	CHRISTOPHER GREAVES
FIRST RESPONDERS	(416) 769-4651	CHRISTOPHER GREAVES
WINNING EDGE	(416) 277-8253	CHRISTOPHER GREAVES

I sign on to the above list at least once a day, so response to queries is pretty fast. Contact can be made in the first instance by dialling any of those boards directly, although some boards (Computing Canada OnLine) do not support game-playing, the option is there for interested parties to establish communication if they or their company accesses one of the systems.

Addressing messages to me through the main conference (usually numbered "0") of any of the above BBS will reach me. As well, many BBS are now linked into international networks. CRS organises the Canada Conference Mail, and so, by reference to the enclosed photocopy, you'll see that a potential player in Winnipeg could dial a local (Winnipeg) number 663-8490 and leave a message for me in a conference of the Bob Snyder's BBS which is carried by CRS, and to which (conference) I belong.

The caveat is that sending a message to me in a conference which I do not read may result in me not seeing the message, so a quick voice-call to my home number (416) 233-7272 may help to dispel any doubts. In any case, a direct call, albeit long-distance, to any of those Toronto numbers will permit the user to place a message for me on the main board of the BBS, and I'll always see such messages.

cheers/Chris

RULES

- 1- Deadline for bids has been extended to Aug. 18, 1989.
- 2- Anyone may participate in the bidding. All you have to do is submit a bid on an item (no money at this time please). If you are the highest bidder, the item will be yours and you'll be notified of when, where and how much $$$ to send. Checks should be made out to John Caruso.
- 3- In case of bid ties, postmarks will decide. In case of postmark ties, the auctioneer will commit suicide (or try to persuade the donator to donate more than 1 item, or persuade the tied parties (sounds kinky, doesn't it) to settle amicably.). If all negotiated paths fail, the auctioneer will revert to that age old settler of disputes- the random 6 sided cubicle.
- 4- All bids will be secret. This is a 1 round auction, you will not get a 2nd chance. Your bids can be conditional upon money you are spending and whether you get another item. They can not say "1¢ above the highest bid" for an example. An example of a bid- "A-001 I bid $5 B-003 I bid $2, but if I don't get A-001, make my B-003 bid $5."
- 5- All items are postage paid by the donator unless stated otherwise.
- 6- All donations will go to hobby services as decided by the PDO finance com.
- 7- Allow 4-6 weeks after the auction deadline for the item to arrive to you. That is, if you pay your bid immediately. The longer it takes for you to get your donation back to me, the longer it takes all around. I can't notify the donator until I receive the money.
- 8- Input is welcomed and encouraged.
- 9- Additional catalogues can be had for a SASE from me, John Caruso 636 Astor St Norristown, Pa. 19401
- 10- Good luck and have fun.
