The British army in Spain is dislodged, and must retreat to the Mac-Antantis. The Spanish Air "Fall 1908" moves in SATURDAY 30 OCTOBER 1965.

In the "Fall 1907" news reported in GRAUSTARK #44, the German move "A Rio S ENGLAND A Dan-Bar" and the Russian move "F Bar-Kio" should be underlined.

In the new game 1965A, John McCallum was incorrectly entered as Germany. John Bayne will play Germany in this game, and Italy will be taken by a Brooklyn College student. Pending further notice, play in 1965A is suspended. See GRAUSTARK #46 for further information on this game, and the names and addresses of the other players.

GRAUSTARK, the oldest bulletin of postal diplomacy, is published by John Boardman, 892 18th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Italian army in Venice is dislodged and must retreat to Turin, Rome or Apulia. The UNIC should inform the Commander of the direction of this retreat by immediate return air mail. The Commander will send the retreat to the IFA. A tentative deadline of SATUR-DAY 30 OCTOBER 1965 is set for "Fall 1908" moves, subject to postponement
should the IFA request it.

FRANCE: The Belgian government reported that the small of some kind was ing across the border and it almost certain that attack is imminent. The government has issued gas masks and is sitting tight.

His Majesty, the King of France
again issued a warning to the governments of England and Germany to the effect that if they did not stop this petty bickering with Belgium, he would personally see that they were kicked out of the club house.

Since His Majesty the Tsar seems set on destroying the Berlin Bear works, His Majesty of France has soon fit to declare war on Russia. "We will drive them out, even if it costs every drop of Germany's blood."

VIEENNA: At a recent press conference held on the steps of the office of the imperial censor, Baron Münchhausen made a final addition to his controversial comment on the state of the Army, saying, "Of course, I actually meant to imply that the Second Millennium celebrations in Berlin will include a strong commitment from the Imperial Guard for ceremonial purposes to celebrate our impending victory."

Later, on the steps of the Ministry of Research, the Baron observed, "In these times, plagiarism is remarkably rife in the Russias."

TRANSYLVANIA: Franz Joseph, Emperor of the Austrians and Protector of Europe, is here to inspect records of ghostly occurrences at Frankenstein Castle. After an extensive tour of the Castle grounds, he held a press conference, where he reported, "The fears of the populace are happily groundless; I can assure one and all that Austria in this time-space continuum keeps all state skeletons contained in the offices of the Bureau of the Imperial Censor."

MOSCOW: Mikhail Ivanovich Labchevski ("Call me Nick"), who recently became Prime Minister due to his shrewd analysis of European politics, announced the departure of the Czar to his nearest province, Bore Bora. Labchevski, who until recently has been dogcatcher in Chelabinsk, is famous for his "What - No War?" attitude as exemplified by the now-famous "Who the Hell is Prime Minister Taxis?" address.

He has also stated his desire to meet with Taxis - choice of weapons is up to Mr. Taxis.

CHELABINSK DAILY GAZETTE: This town was recently thrown into an uproar at the loss of their dogcatcher. One of the applicants for the position has unusual qualifications: Two years prime-ministering!

WALSAW: Plans for this winter's anti-war cantata contest are proceeding satisfactorily. According to one official, "We plan to hold the recognition ceremonies in Berlin this year." A fitting place for an anti-war ceremony!

TRYPHENSE: Prime Minister Taxis today indignantly told the press that a letter of application for Dog-Catcher of Chelabinsk, submitted in his name, had actually been written by a Royal Page named Giglio. "I have recommended this young scamp for the most condign punishment," the ministers Taxis told reporters. "But it pleases His Majesty to maintain a most lax standard of discipline in the Royal Corps of Pages."

TRYPHENSE: M. Labirbe, leader of the Ligue contre la Licence des Interieurs, announced that there would be a Tryphensian entry in the anti-war cantata contest. The cantata is now being composed by Giglio, a page to King Pausole. According to M. Labirbe, Giglio is employing Mr. Edison's new invention, the phonograph, in composing the work. "This slover youth," he said, "is recording the sounds made by men and women in passionate embraces. These sounds he plans to put together, by adroit re-recording, into a work of art. Certainly no sounds are more appropriate than these, for an anti-war cantata."

M. Labirbe refused to comment on a rumor that Giglio was working with his daughters, Milena Galatoo and Eulis Labirbe, in the composition of this cantata.

THE DIPLOMATIC TOUCH

CHARLES REINSEL, 120 8th Ave., Clarion, Penn. 16214: In the first seven years I entered in Diplomacy without picking one country but all by chance I got (all) 7 different countries:

England in 19650 (Danitania)

Austria-Hungary in 19652 (Loosky

France in 19658 (Eriad-Dur "A")

Mountain)

Germany in 19655 (Eriad-Dur "B")

Russia in 19654 (Costacuma)

Italy in 19651 (Eriad-Dur "C")

Turkey in 19651 (GRANSTARK)

I bet no one has had this happen to him, have they? [(No.)]

Charles Galle writes that at 4:43 PM on Monday 11 October he and Jane became the parents of an 8 1/2 lb. son, Matthew Carl Galle.
