MOSCOW (PEP): It was brought to the attention of Emperor Lobachevski that some fool inadvertently held the anti-war cantata contest in Vienna. This is hereby declared null and void, and the Emperor further stated: "If such nonsense continues, war will be declared. Against whom, we don't know..."

MOSCOW (PEP): Asylum in Russia for all of Trypheme has been granted by the dogcatcher of Chelyabinsk. "I don't know who the hell he is, but anybody who doesn't exist in France is more than welcome here." Rumor has it the dogcatcher will be assassinated to prevent a duplication of the recent coup that brought our beloved Emperor Lobachevski to the international spotlight.

WARSAW (PEP): The leader of the International Brothel Brotherhood announced that receipts have increased 200% since the entry of the Germans into the maiden city. When pressed for further comment, she said, "..."

CHATEAU CHANTELLE: We regret to announce that His Majesty King Avaricius XIII passed away last night while reading his Evening Tins-News. He is said to have had a stroke while reading the German news release from time line 1965Q and mistaking it for his own time line, 1965NT. Since he was the last of the Moribundian monarchs, a new era, that of the Republic, has been ushered in. Of course, there was the usual purge - the old government had its collective head removed. The new government, headed by Prime Minister de la Tremouille, has promised drastic action against the enemies of La Belle France.

PARTIS: The first act of the new Prime Minister was to take a definite stand on the troublesome position of Trypheme. Professor Beaufleur, Head Geographer, reported to de la Tremouille that although he and his assistants searched all the maps

 ((The American Civil Liberties Union is undertaking legal action against the government's little habit of sending the names of draft-age anti-war demonstrators back to their local draft boards with recommendations for reclassification.))

ANDREW SWANSON in #74: Since I refuse to believe that any side is entirely right on any side of anything, we of course are at fault. I think we are at least half responsible for the whole matter, but not for the reasons John gives.

ERIC BLAKE in #74: This surprises me as much as it will surprise you, but I agree with you on the illegitimacy of the Nuremberg trials. My personal opinion is that all the war criminals should have been taken out and shot by the army, rather than trying them by an ex post facto law and in a court which had no jurisdiction. ((What court did have jurisdiction? To deny that any court had jurisdiction is to deny that crimes had been committed. I suggest you look up the old concept in international law of hostis humani generis.)) It was a fine play for legalism, but it was in fact pointless.

I, as an underneath, was shocked at you, as a Catholic, saying that no American has a higher loyalty to anything than to his country. Do not you, as I, have a higher loyalty to your conscience and your own self. Sir, I would not obey any law or any order of the government that disagreed with my conscience, my ethical sense, or myself, and despite your protestations I believe you wouldn't either. Just to take one, admittedly far fetched, example, if the government suddenly instituted a system of "eugenic breeding", and ordered you to divorce your wife (if you are married, which I do not know) would you obey? Loyalty, as well as wishing the best type of citizen for the country, would command you to, your religion and conscience would forbid you. Which would you listen to?

I oppose the practice of the Red Cross that is referred to here ((labelling blood by the donor's race in some southern states)) yet while I attempt to bring pressure to bear on them, I would still contribute to them because I recognize the other good they have done. (Not blood, because I have a personal aversion to giving up my own blood unless I am paid for it, and then only when I am in the direct financial admits.)

Many (though agreed not all) of the draft card burners and opponents of the war are doing this on the ground that they happen to be pro-American and don't want to see America making a fool of herself, and taking an unwise course. This is my reason for the opposition which I have.

ARLON B. CALHOUN, 201 W. 21st St., New York, N. Y. 10011:

I would like to get some reactions to the following new rules (from players who have actually played with them):

1. (Six-man game) With six players start the game in 1870, # 262 prior to the unification of Italy. The Italian pieces stand in place and do not support each other. If they are disabled by superior force, they are removed from the board. The supply centers in Italy may be used by occupying powers to raise forces, in the usual way.

2. (Six-man game) Start the game in 1801. Germany and Italy are treated like Italy in the paragraph above.

I think these rules will give play similar to that of the previous game. There is good historical basis for these rules, and they give good balance by eliminating a country that has relatively bleak offensive prospects (Italy), thereby bettering the outstanding weaker (Austria-Hungary), thus eliminating the second ranking (Germany). In the 1801 game, France is well situated, but that's the way it is.

If user response is favorable, I definitely want to include these rules in future sets.

SAMUEL MCNAUL, 30, CLASS 1916, DIED IN TORONTO, ONTARIO: ((Wellesley Banks))

Now it seems that another group of colonists wanted independence from England but England said no and the colonists said yes and they proceeded to declare unilateral independence and lo and behold, those from whom they learned the method denied them self-determination, penalty.

Perhaps the ~~method~~ is patented. Or perhaps the U. S. Government of the beginnings. And this ~~country~~, perhaps doctors aren't the only hypocrites. ((?))

As for WHO we will be glad to provide suitable guidance and assistance for anyone wishing to become a self-appointed Olympic torch.

((You'd like to have unilateral declarations of independence from the British crown, without regard for the cause in which they are made. Would you be as vehement in support of this principle, if the next such unilateral declaration of independence came from the Quebec nationalist movement?)

...to represent themselves to the U.S. as declared its independence and to have the same recognized by the British government would be a very dangerous course for the United States to take, as it was expected by the British government, and the British government.

((If you believe so strongly in the U. S. position in Vietnam, come on over and enlist.))

JOHN A. McCALLUM, "A" Quarters, S. E. 3., Ralston, Alberta: Isn't your remark about the Indian Government and certain attitudes about beer and Section 11 (see GRAVESTONE) just as good as ever? I have always interpreted the Indian's view to be no wine "to him" or "the Government officials." French wrote me many years ago an Indian officer, a Novalis, attached to the RCMP. He was fond of a glass of whisky and his invariably used to dip his finger in the glass before drinking and ring a bell to summon his maid. I never could make out how that libation with a drop or two could be interpreted as a tip. His respects to Indians, etc., etc. It seemed to satisfy him.

((I believe that the Biblical injunction is "Thou shalt not drink one drop of wine." I believe that the man who he was forbidden to drink!))
((Several days ago you took part of my wine. You have now given me a bottle of wine, a two bottle cork and foil wrapped. The bottle is labeled "White Wine from California. 1970. Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. 12% alc/vol. 750 ml."))
((I am sorry, but I must return it. I would like to keep a bottle of wine for myself, but I do not want to drink it. I do not want to drink it. You

((Certainly. This wine is hereby declared to be mine.))

RECORDED IN THE OFFICE OF THE CLERK OF THE COURT OF APPEALS
ON APRIL 10, 1969.

((Good morning)) I'm getting up this morning and writing you this letter every day, ... we have to see the opinions of so many people in the world that everybody has to have his voice from some of your own friends and don't appreciate this kind of news at all. Weighing it to be better to carry them in P.W. and allow them to reflect their paper Diplomacy war full undiluted with reality, to be able to understand.

((You have a good point, therefore, unless you want to omit any documents appearing in this letter column, I'll close off the discussion with the next issue.))

Greece, Montenegro, Naples, Rome, Crete, Trieste, Tunis, Valona. England may build one new unit. France must remove one unit. The deadline for these "winter 1905" units is MONDAY 27 DECEMBER 1905, but if the waves come in by 15 December they will go out in that weekend's tides at GRIMSTAD.

LONDON: King Edward was assassinated by a Basque suicide bomb while on an inspection tour of English shipyards. None of the Basques survived the fierce sea battle. The Basques were landed at Clyde by the Turkish 3rd Fleet in the North Atlantic Ocean. The Basques then waited near Edinburgh for the King.

A stunned England is slowly recovering under the leadership of the Prime Minister. The Earl of Thompson pledged to bring the Tsar to justice for this cowardly murder. A Turkish captain was to state that Turkey understood the Basques would be only to further safety being held in Scotland.

The Earl of Thompson planned to complete the new fleet so that it could soon join the three fleets already according the English command. With our fleets in 1910, England will soon be battle with the Turkish 3rd Fleet.

WASHINGTON: News word of the assassination of King Edward VII reached Washington today. Senator Borodine (Rep., Ind.) was fiercely attacking the Farmer-Labor Socialist Peace Party administration's conduct of the affairs of the Bureau of Petroleum Products (formerly Standard Oil, Inc.). Vice-President Doe interrupted the Senator to read the sad news to the Senate, which immediately recessed as a mark of respect to the late monarch.

President Eaton later issued a statement expressing the condolences of the government and people of the United States of America. "It is indeed tragic," the statement noted, "that the passions of war, which have rocked Europe for over eight years, have now so inflamed us to wage this numerous and terrible."

BRUSSELS: In a speech to the Belgian Parliament, Prof. Bertinetti, called up the feelings of most of them when he said, "The world of material, together with their colleagues in France and Germany, have torn Europe to shreds. But there was no need for them all to be visited upon us self-sacrificing and innocent citizens."

Jean Joseph of France bowed to Hitler with respect. "I have very little respect for kings, and none at all for royalists. If we don't kill them, they'll kill us."

DAS UBERHOCHSICHER KOMMAND ONS DER UMGANGSWERTER DEM ZWEITEN REICH (den 21st Mai 1905): With the pacification of Belgium, all of the 2nd Reich's territorial ambitions in Europe have been satisfied.

VIENNA: Be it known to all that a state of war exists between Austria-Hungary and Germany, Russia, Turkey, and Italy. Surrender (unconditional, naturally) must be postponed no later than December 7, 1905 to be acceptable.

WARSAW: "Big Brother" today announced that every Communist found in Russia is to be hung within 24 hours. Also, "Big Brother" mentioned that war is declared on Austria-Hungary.

CHINA AND RUSSIA: El Big Brother, leader of a group of former dissidents of the Chinese Democracy Party, has issued a warning to Russia. An American noble who was discovered to be a member of the newly formed association "Friends of China," the Chinese dissident organization, was uncovered and "steps will be taken to lessen its impact," the leader warning to Russia. "Get out of my Black Sea!" said El Big Brother.

Así que comenzaron a cultivar arroz y otros cultivos que necesitaban agua dulce. Los europeos también se dieron cuenta de que el agua dulce era más saludable que el agua de mar, y comenzaron a consumir agua dulce en su propia tierra.
