JUTLAND JOLLIES

As you may have surmised from the title, this is Jutland Jollies (6 of a series of brilliant masterpieces), a Club Blub publication, which contrary to information conveyed (this is a navel (oops) magazine after all) in STAB, does not sink, swim or disappear.

There are no more game fees because there are not any more games. Subs remain 10 for $1.00, not that any of you seem to be interested.

As a parting gesture we wish to declare this National Stab STAB week.

WINTER 1903 ORDERS ARE DUE FRIDAY, 15 December, 1967

ROME: The Italian Inventor's Union Local 391 in Milan have discovered a method by which an unopened bottle of Canadian beer can be sabotaged without opening the container itself.

"A simple device capable of measuring the amounts of carbon dioxide in the vacuum of the bottle, coupled with the knowledge of exactly how much pressure the cap can withstand, is all that is necessary. Merely agitate the container until the needle reaches the red zone and re-insert into the case".

However, due to increasing amounts of mala aria in Canada, the device can be used for only a few more months. Several models have been sent to novelty shops in Youngstown, Ohio, where there is no danger of air pollution.

ADRIA NOBLE: The Sultan Joseph Greenaum III thanks the Italian Govt. for their most kind offer to fight the Austrians. But the Sultan must decline. The peoples of Islam are currently engaged in a most delightful war with Russia. Also, the Islamic peoples consider Austria-Hungary to be a most worthy ally, whose troubles are their troubles.

MODENA: Canadian rangers, discovered roaring drunk in cellars here, have been rounded up to face trial unless Italy, as expected, declares war on Canada, whereupon their beer ration will be slowly increased until they die of cirrhosis.

"They find our Ma la Aria quite tasteful and no swamp gas has been reported yet" stated physicans in Modena General Hospital.

NAPLES: In response to demands of the civilian population for military protection against Canadian gunboats reported on Corsica.

"We will remain indefinitely until the danger presented by the Canadians has passed", reports Admiral Scuttleria, well-remembered for ramming his flagship, the Injuria, into a passing English beer barge barge in 1889.

CONSTANTINOPLE: The intellectual community of this fair city of the royal purple is very impressed with the foreign policy of Tsar Charles the Terrible of Russia. Tsar Charles is indeed circumspect in his foreign policy--the Terrible Tsar has only declared war upon Turkey, attacked Austria-Hungary, and threatened England. The one part of Tsar Charles' foreign policy that has created confusion is his shabby treatment of the Germans.

Fall 1901 moves are due 15 December, Friday, 1967

WIEN: (8 March, 1901) In accordance wurg the agreements of November, 1900, at the Conference of Lov, the Imperial Austro-Hungarian Government announces the incorporation of the Kingdoms of Serbia and Albania into the Empire as client states.

The Ministry expects complete incorporation of these territories into the Empire, with full privileges and obligations by 1904 at the latest.

War Minister von Korber also announced the conclusion of treaties of non-agression with Austria's neighbours, vowing that the tireless "diplomatic efforts of countless servants of His Imperial Majesty have finally secured peace for Europe in our time".

VERSAILLES: (3 April) The King of All the French, Normans; Scots, and Welsh, Coleman I of Anjou, today issued a long, eloquent summary of his grievances against the present Spanish ruler. While emphasising that he had no issue with the people of the noble land of Spain, he expressed his sadness at being forced to remove the King of Spain from his unlawfully secured throne. He stated his intention of restoring the rightful ruler, Peter XIII of Anjou, to the throne of Spain, and asked the people of that land to allow a speedy and harmless movement of a few police forces from Andorra to Madrid. King Coleman promised his armies would not attack, nor have a-nything to do with the populace so long as it remained impassive to the police action.

VERSAILLES: (14 May) The Foreign Minister of France, Jacques Anoneto, was sorry to announce today that a minor incident of English piracy in the Manche necessitated occupation of the Channel Islands. He stated no action would be taken against England as a whole if it also took its lawful part in suppressing these pirates; thereby indicating its support of law, order, and peaceful commerce.

BRUSSELS: (April 30) The King of Belgium, Lendex IV, was grieved to announce that all contact had been lost with the border fortress of Tournai. French forces, it seemed, had cut the telegraph wires and besieged the place. The only unit of the Royal Belgian Army anywhere near the place was in Rochefort, and this gallant brigade was expected to march to the rescue of Tournai against any dastardly Frenchmen near the outpost. "If this is a French invasion" intoned Lendex, "We will never be overrun! What a weak force has attacked us. Our southeastern area can hold out indefinitely."

However, it was feared in some Brussel's circles that the worst was yet to come.

CONSTANTINOPEE: The Turkish government wishes to announce the approval of an alliance with the (Red Letter Man date 7 Nov) with one exception to the terms requested; the country you desire is desperately needed by our peaceful people for our culturalistic improvement. We suggest a more northern sweep--possibly Tyrolia and then Vienna and Munich). Get the picture?

We hope you will write us again. May your reign be glorious.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN DEPARTMENT:

"There were no trees, no vegetation, just rocks. We built our fort . . . we ran water infrom a stream two kilometers away . . . we brought in earth . . . we carried trees fifty kilometers . . . we made that cliff alive and green.

Where the Legion passed it always turned the land green. Ourt in the Bled we taught Berber childern to read and write. Our toubibs cured their buboes and shankers. We delivered their babies . . .

Now we're on Corsica!

We stopped 30,000 Viets in their tracks at Vinh Yen under de Lattre. We had the fels running like rabbits into Tunisia under General Challe . . . yet pretty soon the Legion will be so low they wiâl give us the job of handing out parking tickets to keep us occupied.

I don't care any more . . . let the windows break in our barracks in Sidi Bel-Abbes. Let the holes open in the roads we built. Nobody there now is going to repair them. Let the telephones fail and the lavatories clog up, and the sewers flood . . . let the whole porca madonna of a country settle back into the dust it was when we first went there one hundred and fifty years ago.

And let the Americans, those disanurati hypocrites who forced us out of Algeria, sink out of sight in the rice paddies of the Mekong Delta . . .

KIM'S KORNER

Bill Christian London House, Mecklenburgh Square, London, W.C.1 England

I ran into a chap here ((London)) who has played ((Diplomacy)) before, but he finds that it is a quick and easy way to loose friends. This is a phenomenon that I have met before. Apparently, a great many people are not imbued with an understanding of the thos of the game. They don't realize that the only way not to be betrayed, is to be ready at every moment to betray. As a result, they become excessevely angry when they are stabbed in the back. This fellow said that he gave up playing the game when he lost one friend over a very clever attack. The friend was a girl who began to cry....
