This will be my last issue of 1983 so I'm wishing Y'ALL a Merry Christmas. Comments: Firstly-do not put off your letter mailing!! Christmas is coming and that means that the mail goes veeeerrry slowly. I am making the next deadline extra long to give you some time to write back and forth (Do people still write?).....No NORTHERN LITES this time as Bob Acheson spent his 2 week leave from Pt Radium getting stoned in North Bay. His next topic will be alcholism..... suppose everyone (except Bob) saw "The Day After"? I thoroughly enjoyed the movie but since everyone is in agreement that Nuclear Vars are not nice I don't see what the hullaballo is all about. The movie does not prove that getting rid of nuclear weapons unitaterally will end all possibility es, the Toronto Argos are in the Grey Cup! By the time you are reading this it will all be over and Toronto will have won the cup for the first time since 1949!

SABY DEPARTMENT: Adam is now up to 131bs 6oz, almost 6 months old and almost ready to crawl. For the last few weeks he's had a rotten rash all over his body and this has had us a little worried. The rash makes the little fellow uncomfortable but he still maintains his happy disposition and it does finally look like he's responding to the medication. Any one else out there have any similar tales with their kids?

The photo is a blowup of one that I sent to Mike Mills. Mike was nice enough to put it into (hopefully) a form that's reproduceable. Hell. if they can copy Hugh Polley's thermal print-paper they should copy this.

Sorry Guys, I know I did promise no baby pictures but who keeps his word in this hobby, apart from Dave Anderson?

This is a Calhamer-type rating that awards points for wins and draws only. Only a limited number of games are rated--currently only Boardman numbered games 1977 through 1982 (no '83's have finished yet). Game start statistic reflects games begun between 1982 BA and 1983 AZ.

Reaching her door, Kirk, Spock and McCoy waited for the door panels to slide adde. The second they did, the now much despised pheromones washed over the three of them, gripping each man sequentially in an intestinal symphony...a kind of rectal fugue in howel in sjor.

There before them stood the exquisitely nonadone, the almost magically band figure of the Deltan Ilia. Certain subtle changes in her attire belied an almost imperceptible departure from her previously sexy body. She wore a tattered, shapele terrycloth housecoat, pink fluffy slippers, dirty white sweatsocks and a headful of curlers stapled to her shiny

Do you know what it's like picking up underwear, doing dishes, cleaning washrooms and making beds for 430 inconsiderate and ungrateful slobs? And not even one word of thanks on Probe's Day."

"Who programmed you?" Kirk wondered, barely curious.

"Ardon programmed me," the probe "And who the hell are you, then?"

Kirk screeched rapidly.

"I am that which was programmed by Ardon,' it answered simply.

Furious, Kirk called for McCoy. "Bones, give this probe everything you've got!"

McCoy walked over and stood squarely in front of the machine.

eyebrow smugly and said, "She's DEAD, Jim."

Stepping back, McCoy leaned against the wall and looked self confidently arrogant. When nothing happened, he turned speechless to Kirk, who stood pointing to the Hallway.

"It should've worked...it should've," McCoy mumbled dejectedly as he walked out the door.

Then, he spied a big strapping hulk of a crewman in the hall. McCoy tried one last shot. Pointing to the man, he said,

"There's nothing I can do for him, Jim" and the man fell dead to the "Haven't lost the old touch!" McCoy said happily, as he clicked his heels and went mercily on his way.

"Chekov, channel every last bit of power in the warp engines through the phasers and train them on that android on Clevel."

Scotty went wild eyed with in amity, "Captain! No vessel in the fleet has ever attempted an internal phaser attack and survived!" he pleaded tearfully.

Kirk quivered his upper lip. Scotty immediately dropped to his knees. "Super idea, Captala, I it's all right with you, I'll go have myself flogged right away!" Kirk nodded and turned to Chekov.

Every light aboard the Enterprise dimmed as the unbelievable power drain herniated the life support systems and reduced the warp engines to a foul smelling pool of liquid metal.

"We missed, Captain," Chekov noticed, seeing that the back half of the Enterprise was blown away.

"Missed?! Idiot! Lunatic! Ayatollah!" Kirk cried. "How could you miss? You tore the back half off my ship and missed the bloody target?" I'll kill you, Chekov," Kirk roared, veins bulging out on his forehead. Before he could barehandedly rip out the poor lad's heart, a voice came over the intercom.

"Kirk unit. This is the Ilia probe. I will allow you to live long enough to answer some questions I have. Meet me in sickbay this minute," the voice said defiantly.

Purple rage flooded Kirk's eyes as he charged down to Sickbay;

"I want answers!" the probe ordered. "Ardon wants answers."

"Ardon can blow it out his orifice," Kirk growled viciously. The probe raised it's hand and evaporated a nearby security officer.

"So, big deal," Kirk said, phasering a second one. The probe looked perplexed. It raised its hand again and blasted the bioscanner units off the wall. Kirk melted an entire operating room. Sweat poured off the probe's forehead as it set fire to the entire C level. Kirk punched several holes in the outer hull of the ship.
"Had enough?"

h e asked. confidently holstering his phaser. The probe conceded the bout and offered to take the Captain to Ardon.

Letter excerpts....

JEFF PUNCHES: I noted that your "World's ugliest dog" joke included a line which mentioned whAt it meant if you didn't understand the joke - What does it mean if I understood it!!

I am suprised at the lack of interest in SLCCPLCSS KNIGATS to both PBM Flat Jop and Gunslinger...maybe none of your subscribers own the games. I am playing in 3 PBM Junslingers and finished another not too long ago. So far I have been killed, wounded in the leg and hit in the body (not vital) - not so good. I have found Junslinger a fun game to play by mail. Jasmes generally last only 6-8 printings so they are very fast moving. Let's hope someone is interested and will sign up.

The San Diego Charners such this year and I don't believe they will win another game. "There is no joy in MANYLLE San Diego! "They are not even fun to watch any more and for a dyed-in-the-wood football. fan that is quite a statement.

((Let's face it Jeff, the only winning sports item that San Diego had was the Chicken. I don't watch the NFL that much out when I do I like to see Dallas win. I love to see Cincinatti lose! The Cincinatti coach is Forrest Gregg and he deserted the good ship Toronto of the CFL to hide in the NFL. I like to see Buffalo lose too but only cos I can't stand their Sports announcers on channels 2,4 and 7.

I kinda suspected that FLAT TOP And GUNSLINGER would find support wanting out I'm always trying to open up a variety of games here. I have had very limited success here opening even variants to Diplomacy. Both my Woolworth and Deadman games closed due to lack of interest. The only reason that we managed to start 82 Ird 05 was because Bob Acheson didn't realize it was a variant. Must have been a helluva Spring negotiating season Bob. Despite that tho Bob is sticking with it.

If you understood that joke then you are obviously a very sick person and should immediately extend your sub.))

BOR ALBRECHT: I just thought that I'd tell you that the reason that Westerners gave numerical addresses is that our cities are so spread out (Calgary alone has 216.3 sq miles) that if we attempted to name all our streets, bays, boulevards, avenues etc...we would need maps the size of the CN Jower just to list all the names. Sesides, our system is logical. Avenues run E-W, streets run N-S and the whole map is divided up into NE, NW, SE, SW to further simplify things. For example, the first road north and east of centre street and Central Avenue Downtown would be 1st Ave NE UK? It's only silly Easterners who want to mess eversone up with Honge St, Don Valley Parkway, Pembina Ave etc You guys in Ontario have a lot of cheek to be telling us what to do after voting in Irudeau in 1980...talk about coneheads!

Anthow, about Pacific Aircraft Carrier battles, I suggest that you aquire a copy of INE GENERAL War/Apr 1983 because it has excellent rules for PBW "Victory In The Pacific" which happens to be a favourite of mine. I also like WIDWAJ and perhaps we could get someone to GW a game for us?

SPI games seem to suffer from unplayability generally. I played "The Battle For Germany" and wasn't all that impressed with it. They (SPI) have overly complex approaches to what should be simply accurate games. This was part of the reason for it's downfall, that and the fact that SPI specialized in 3000 unit 40 sq ft monster games that were just unplayable (requiring the equivalent of a Bsc in learning the rules and 20 years to play the dammed game).

Is far as computers go tho, do not buy an Atari, Vic - 20, C - 64 etc. They are trash with a capital J. when you get tired of the cartridge games, these computers have the capacity to do just about nothing. They are designed to be obsolecent in 2-3 years and by about 1986-7 you will find that nothing is available for these machines. I work and study in the U of Calgary computing science department and I know of whence I speak.

The only reality smart buy is the personal computer that has a large "K" (Kilo byte) capacity. The Apple II and IRS 80 are your best alternatives here. Not only are Apple graphics the best going, you also have a good printer. With a good printer you could have a zine that would rival Time of in quality. Add a few of RAM cards to increase the memory and you could run Third REiceh on one. So save your SSS as I am and buy an Apple.

((Ig Lew and Roo Winslow both seem happy enough with their Atari's and Randolph Smyth did not have anything good to say about Radio Shack TRS so it all depends on the user. Since an Apple IIe without a printer goes for $2,200.00 I'll have to wait a long while for it. Ron Brown also wrote recently and he also put down the Commodore and suggested buying an IBM personal computer. I don't know what you guys do for money?

As for voting in Turdeau. Yes it was a mistake but lets look at the way Canadian electors 30: Quebecers always go for the Liberals, Westerners alway go for Conservatives, Maritimers always go for whoever will promise them a new fishery. In Ontario we sit down and study the issues and the people and then cast our votes. Sometimes it is Liberal and sometimes it is Conservative and very occassionally it is a little bit of New Democrat. If it wasn't for us there wouldn't be a need for an election. In 1980 it was a choice between Turdeau and Joe WHO and Ontarions obviously felt that, as arrogant as he is, Turdeau was a better choice than a man with string tied to his gloves. Until the Rhino's become a dominant force it will always be that way.))

D.S. PALTER: Let ABJ CARRIERS - you've got it about right. Sub-cute subsystems improperly melded do not a game make. Then again that was typical SPI.

Re: NNJNENH DJES: Jupical - wash away a Soviet atrocity by proving that it's a cold cold, cruel world out there. Jes no one has clean hands. Jes, especially in the third world we all have allies we'd prefer not to tath about. But, no, there are degrees of dirt. The process of civilization is one of slowly confining random violence in a chaotic world. Civilization is an imperfect process but it overall beats the alternative, a hobesian "state of nature". The downing of Flight 007 was an act of murder. The only possible excuse, if that is the proper word, is incompetence of such an overwhelming cosmic level as to be trajically laughable. Ivan has made no excuses and boasts he would do it, even with 20-20 hindsight, exact; the same way. Prosecution rests.

((Nobody ever accused the Soviets of humanitarism, I don't know which scares me the most: the fact that trained Soviet pilots cannot tell the difference between a civilian plane and a military one or the fact that Soviet decision makers would give the signal to shoot down a loaded civilian airliner?

Personally I would not want my government to have as an ally any country with records of oppressive penaviour as bad as Central and South America and Lebanon, Especially Lebanon! I mean how do you go about explaining to 200 sets of parents that their son died in Lebanon defending....? Defending what? Stand brack and let the factions kill each other off is as good a policy as I can think off. Ditto for South America where neither side deserves to win. Oh well, I don't believe in taxes either so dream on.

Letters continued.....

DAVE ANDERSON: Re Midway. I don't care which side I am in but I don't think I could GM it. The hardest part wall be doing the air-battles. eg: The Americans attack a Japanese fleet with readied planes. The Fill tells the Japanese player to set up his fleet on the battle board. Wouldn't the Japanese player immediately launch hi planes to avoid being caught with readied planes on deck?

((Nope, cos the Japanese player would have had to have already submitted his battle board layout to the GM "in case" it needs to be used. Using the AH PBH rules, each player is required to submit: moves for each task force, search zones, ready state, ship distribution for both air and surface battles. There is nothing to stop him from launching his planes out he would just be guessing since he would not have any indication that there is an attack coming in.))

Jame-type notes: Y'all may or may not want to vote on the following draw proposals: (1) Italian concession (2) I/F draw, (3)  $R/I/\bar{F}$  draw. No vote=No unless you really screw up and NMR in which case your absence to vote means YES. Deadline is: Friday January 6th. Don't leave it too late cos mail delivery is non-existent in Canada around Christmas.

typewriter. I use a mylar rubbon and Х "lift-off" correction tape for SIAFU, and a cloth ribbon for everything else. Х That mylar sure looks good. Can you do the same? Ribbons and correctiuon tape are so expensive though I really have to use the cheaper stuff for nonpublishing material (I never considered х how much it would cost when I bought х the typewriter). ((I used to use mylar but I only managed to make 3 or 4 runs of the ribbon before it became unreadable. With the cloth rioson I can pound the piss out of it and really get my money's worth. At $6 a ribbon it xx ain't chicken feed. I usually keep a good ribbon for SK and then use it for other stuff when I finish an issue.))

GARY COUGHLAN (Postcard from Gander International Airport): Back in Jorth х America and we've been directed to Gander - so now I've been to Canada х too! х

(1) Eugene Ely flew off the US Light cruiser BIRMINGHAM. Trivia Quiz answers: (2) Snooker was invented in India. (3) Calcium Carpide produces Acetylene. (4) Hydra matic was an automatic transmission for a car. (5) First baseball field in the US was Cooperstown. Sooooo easy hun! (6) The Geiger counter was invented by Hans Geiger. I would have even given you a point if you just gave me his last name. (7) CQD Come Quick Danger. (8) F/37 /34 is the Spitfire.

Annalee Cohen added this about Question 6: The Jeiger counter is also known in some circles as the jeiger-Huller counter. The dispute is wether or not the machine was invented by Jans Jeizer or with W Wuller.

Next Quiz: It seems such a long time since I threw a SF quiz at you that it must be that time again. This time the quiz will be the easist ever. All of the following quotations are from STAR WARS. All you have to do is tell me who said them. I'm expecting 70+ people to reply to this, right?

(1) "Sont act so surprised your dighness. You were'nt on any mercy mission this time." (2). " Mos disley the spaceport. You will never find a more wretched hive of scum and villary" (3)"Son't be too proud of this technological terror nou've constructed. The ability to destroy a planet is insignificant next to the power of the force" (4)"Th my, I've forgotten how much I hate space travel." (5) "The circle is now complete. Then I left I was but the tearner now I am the master." (6) "Jou must do what you feel is right, of course" (7)"Evacuate? In our moment of triumph? I think you overestimate their chances." (8) "Jou stuck-up, half-witted, scruffy-looking nerf-herder!" (9)"To Blasters! Ho Blasters!" (10) "I have just received word that the Emporer has dissolved the Council permanently. The last remnants of the IDD Republic have been swept away." (11) "Tho's the more foolish? The foot or the fool who follows him?"

Russia-Turkey: My favorite event is broad-jumping. Know any? England-GM: 3'm"settling down" in 8298? Ha, look again. It's hard to get any fun press going in 82B, however, as Blair Cusack is the only player that's acknowledged my existence. No future Chaucers in this group! (Maybe that'll get 'em going, eh Davel How's the for a start:

England-Turkey: So the French-man has Greek Tendencies? That's OK. I'll insist he use my special lubed prophylatics, the ones greased with vaseline on the outside and tobasco on the inside. That'd teach him to be a back door man, no?

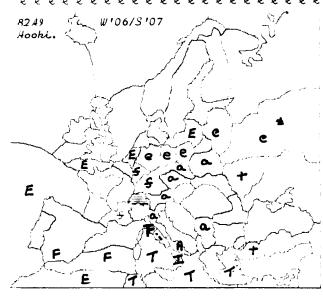

GM-England: Like the little Greek boy who left home because he wasn't being reared right, but came back because he couldn't leave his brothers behind.

England-Russia: First letter gets you, eh? I have an E from 43BC (Roman I believe). Do I now "get" you? Obou! I sure hope so!

England-GM: With all these eh's an no's, perhaps I could move to Canada, no? At least I could drink good beer and smoke real cigarettes, no? What do you think, eh?

GM-England: Canada's loss is Rochester's gain! England-GM: That's what I thought you'd think.
