

L D N S RIP-OFF

That's right, this is the big LDNS Rip-off. Normally I would be telling you what you would be getting inside, but this time what I am going to tell you is what you are not getting. You are not getting the Demo game, you are not getting any articles, you are not getting humor and you are not even getting the fancy title page. Not only that you are not getting charged for this issue. What you are getting are the games, that and nothing more. The reason for this is due to the close deadline dates of Diplomacy World and LDNS. We are sorry for any inconvenience but I am sure after you get the next issue you will be more than happy. For next issue will be a monster, and if you promise not to tell anybody next month we will be starting the worlds first Postal Bingo game. Goodbye - and good luck

Paris to Berlin: Many, many apologies are offered along with a dozen olive branches.

Mar: It was reported today that the Italian grape crop in Piedmont was ruined by the Blackfoot. There is only one cure for this dreaded parasite, amputation.

Berlin: Helmut Hoff-auss stared off into the cold, black North Sea. "Vell," said he, "not even und post card from der Englander." With a heavy heart, Helmut ordered the forces of right onward towards the White Cliffs. "When war happens, all humanity suffers," continued Helmut, losing his Herman accent. "So what?" he concluded.

Cables from Froggy Hardisty indicated more hardship for England, but Helmut could not be fooled. "Der frog does not trust us yet," he said. "But ve vill prove to him dat ve are und peace-loving people underneath our sneakiness."

Helmut also fired off a telegram to Austria today offering luck to them...and nothing else. "Ven Stanislaus gets hold of dem clowns, vatch out!!!" exclaimed the animate Hoff-auss. As for Da Gawdfodder, Helmut sen sent a special gift of a dozen empty violin cases with instructions not to clean them when they were loaded.

VIENNA: The Greater Austrian Co-postenity Sphere thinks Stockton is a Turkey. ((No he had so much trouble coordinating the moves, Turkey lives in San Diego.--JHJ))
 They further believe that if you drive thru Stockton and blink your eyes, you will miss it. They further add the imperial troops do not like German beer, but Golden, CO or Olympia, WA do not appear on the map.

Vienna to Allies; Warning: Do not attempt to stab the GM. If this happens, the GM will make nasty comments through out LDNS. Most unfair. ((The pen is mightier than the sword.--JHJ))

London to Con: When you decided the time was right, you sure did it right.

London to Moscow: You are now facing a long hard and cold winter. I am sure that France and I can supply you with all the heat you want!

ANKARA: There was much rejoicing in the streets today as the victorious Turkish army retook the capitol. General Ottoberger, who led the campaign, was accused of collaborating with the Russians for the last year. The General answered these questions by saying "We were out numbered on all fronts. I know we had to try something desperate. I had all the men go to their nearest Russian Army recruitment center and sign up. Then when they went back to Moscow to get us uniforms, we marched here. If they ever come back we'll be ready for them!"

ST. PETERSBURG: Angered by the English contempt for authority, the Czar has ordered his troops to capture Norway.

"But what if they disagree also with your views toward the ownership of Norway?" questioned a reporter.

"Then we'll just THREATEN to take it!" he replied.

RUSSIA TO THE REMAINS OF THE POPE: I shall pray for you, my friend.

BERLIN: The Kaiser has discovered what he feels may be the answer to world peace. If everyone did only as directed by the current leader of Germany, there would be no cause for petty disagreements. Berlin to Moscow: Maybe that chicken Powers won't attack you, but he can't stop me!
ARCHANGLE: His Royal highness made an inspection tour of the English Crown Colony of St. Petersburg today. The king states that he is glad that English technology has increased the Vodka production over 150%. The King's fleet and sailors, however, have increased their Vodka intake in a similar proportion.

LONDON: The King, now recovering from his near brush with death during the St. Pete revolt, has proclaimed a national day of absolute silence in honor of the few, but still missed, Englishmen that have died in the fight against the bloody French and Russian plot to over-throw semi-democracy in Europe. His Majesty proclaimed this holiday from his bed, where he is recovering from the mysterious head injury he recieved after visiting the sailors in Archangle.

TYRO FOREST: While walking to the usual gypsy camp the Duke notices it is in shambles. The gypsy sees him and greets him in sorrow. "My house is disrupted and I can't help you now." "I believe in tea leaves no more so worry not." "Then why come" "To prophesise your doom gypsy." "My doom?" she chuckled, "You must be mistaken: Is it not I who have you at bay?" "What good does it do gypsy to grow at will yet have no home to build in? And does not the red fire glow white hot the more coal you throw in? And how can 4 ounces of water put out a 10 story fire especially if it grows on coal every passing moment. My dear foolish gypsy, you have not thrown a stone at a paper tiger but rather have awoken a sleeping giant." With that a growl was heard from the woods and a white bear enters the camp. "Oh no" cried the gypsy, "It has returned to lay seige again." Suddenly the Duke grabbed her and said "Yes my gypsy your camp will soon be gone. And though I may not survive the attack myself you gypsy will have nothing not even your life when he's through!"

ROMA: (Please hum "The Theme from the Bible") (we have to keep this religious)

In a large room in the Vatican complex sit two men. It is the two most powerful men in all of Italy. "Da Gawdfodder" and Pope John Phillip Sousa I. Through the magic of my typewriter, we overhear their conversation.

PJPSI (ok, it's to save both me and Pat typing time): "Under the B... ..6." ((Thanks, Bob --PJ))

DG (Dats Da Gawdfodder, OK?): "Bingo!!!"

PJPSI: "You dummy! You cant have Bingo. That's the first number I called."

DG: "I had a lot of free spaces. Besides, I have to talk to you."

PJPSI: "All right, what is it now?"

DG: " Well John,..."

PJPSI: "You may call me Pope John Phillip Sousa I"

DG: "Whatever. Well John, I couldn't wait. I sent out 'The Black Foot'. At this very moment some poor diplomat is shaking in his boots as he contemplates the horrible consequences of receiving the snelly appendage."

PJPSI: "May God have mercy on his soul. By the way, certain people in my employ tell me that Sister Patricia was seen last night at the Pope-a-go-go Disco, dancing with a man wearing dark glasses. I think you're right about her not being a nun. The sisters are only permitted in the club on Tuesdays and Thursdays. She must be an enemy agent and will be eliminated."

DG: "What! And make me lose the best dance partne I've found! We won second place in the dance contest! And did you see that dress she ALMOST had on? I'll keep tabs on her and find out what she's up to."

PJPSI: "Right on, brother."

Well now you fans of indoor sports. What did he mean by "brother"? Who got the "Black Foot"? Is it true that a second one was sent to Pasadena? What does the 'H' in Jerry H. Jones stand for? Is sister Patricia really an enemy agent? If she is, who does she work for? And why didn't we answer the questions we asked last month? For the answers to these any many other insignificant dribble don't forget to tune in next month for further adventures of "Da Gawdfodder". (Press cont. page 2.)
