All MASKATONIC UNIVERSITY rules, including our notorious Rule#4 will be in effect, despite what I just wrote you, Rod.

Spring 1901 moves for the Drithe are still due on the 10th, but the good people in Turkey may send the material when they have time to do so, considering the possible inefficiency of the Post office at such distances. Press releases are expected to run wild in this game.

SUPPORT THE RUMANIAN AIR FORCE MEMORIAL MUSEUM!!! SUPPORT THE RUMANIAN Well, if more on this game occurs to me later, I'll just type it later.

FROM THE DESK OF RADIO ROMANY, ABOARD THE GYPSIE FLEET:

ROME: The triumphant entry of Emperor Golias I into his capitol yesterday was only slightly marred by sopradic demonstrations by ex-Ottoman civil service workers along the parade route, which extended from downtown Naples, birthplace of the November Crusade, to the recently ressurected Caesar's Palace surrounding the Vatican. His combat armor still bearing the stains of aqua regia hurled by one protestor against the new regime, the imperator dismounted from his ceremonial litter borne by two dozen albino djinns in tandem and ascended the four-hundred foot imperial rostrum to greet the crowds thronging the two-mile steps of the Palace. Immediately preceding him on the platform was a dramatic dance interpretation of the Rape of the Saracen Women by Persian war captive Yvonne Bleaugers, a musical recital by the Unione Siciliano Arsonists, Assassins, and Little Caesars Pasta, Jogging, and Science Fiction Brotherhood Roving Band, and a brief dedicatory sermon against the evils of gomorrahy in these perilous times of moral upset by Archdeacon Siniestro LeFey of the First Shrine of Set, Alchemist.

After an enthusiastic standing ovation was quieted with fire hoses and shockprods, Emperor Golias again reaffirmed his repeated pledge for a just, honest and religious reign, and then proclaimed a three-month annual holiday from Winter solstice to Vernal equinox, retro-active a week this year. The expected elevation of Count Carlton of Heston to First Warlord was announced, along with the expected banishment of ex-general Rudolfo Cretin for crimes against humanity. Brandishing the Ring, Emperor Golias swore similar fates for all of those whom he called "corrosive lichens upon the burnished estucheons of a devout and loyal people consecrated to brotherhood and manifesting divinely ordained destiny."

Later that day, ~~the satisty~~ personally opened the first of a series of Games to run throughout the holiday season in the Circus Avro-nomicus and Gigantesseum ((and Atrocitorium?)), both constructed but never used by the previous Ottoman regime. A preliminary exhibition bout of twelve matched pairs of morningstarmen in free-hand berserker competition began the exhibition bout festivities, followed by a Minoan bull pagent, again featuring Miss Bleaugers. Former general Cretin recieved special permission from the Emperor to participate in a high-lightning lux tank destruction derby prior to his exile, but lost the laural due to ignition failure. Funeral ceremonies have been waived by decree due to the holidays and the body will be incinerated informally at the Rome Municipal Waste Depositorium.

Unruffling the jubilance of the Imperial staff, was the reported disappearance of the Heart of Ahriman from the Palermo Maximum Security Arms Depot of Art. An extra batallion of the famed Wild Hunt elite guard has been detailed to protect the imperator, although aides have indicated the incident to be of probable minor significance.

Rumors of impending war continue despite official disclaimers by the emperor's staff concerning the "insignificant and scarcely noteworthy border incidents" along the far eastern frontier adjoining the Russian Empire. "The 189th Grand Turkish Horde has merely been ordered into the Armenian-Caucasian region to aid in reclamation of land by local peasants," it was explained Saturday. Official unhappiness continues to be expressed over the repeated refusal of the Muscovites to permit the 93rd Betsy B Armada of the East to enter the Crimean waters for completion of its Black Sea good-will tour.

Athens- Prime Minister Antigone today predicted total and complete ruin for the Roman-Turkish Empire, although we can't imagine why...

I have word from all players in 19650 except Bill Bogert. Do you suppose that he is mad at me for erroneously copying his name? At least Mc Callum and Reinsel were good enough to let me know how they felt on the matter...

Replacements are made in MISKATONIC UNIVERSITY only after careful consideration-I refuse to take such a violent step on such a whimsical basis as the application of an automatic rule. Nonetheless, Conrad von Metzke has requested that I replace him in 1966X. The position, of course, is free. Any takers???

~~Plus la change...~~

~~Michael Wolf: I thought that John Boardman was taking over the game. Please explain. I am in a daze.~~

It's like this. First, I recieved a note from J.B. requesting me to take over a floundering game...Now, I am flooded with letters protesting all sorts of things about the game...Apparently, "Lusitania I" was the front for a Tong in Sword-and-Sorcery fandom. I am in a daze...
