"OUR COMPLEAT DIPLOMACY PLAYER.."

FROM THE NEWSDESK OF RADIO ROMANY, ABOARD THE GYPSIE FLEET:

In a rare personal appearance before intercontinental trivedio, Turko-Roman Press Minister Louis Sade yesterday proclaimed an imperial decision of the utmost gravity. "Bzlerferstak nye mag noragoick blech snafu re cordnum notary sojat eta nisa est pyharyphas ben qwigal xonamu yendi flagellum," announced the dignitary, emphasizing the firmness of Esperor Golias in this course by adding: "Elicvt jkyak emu rorsch mygplevue Mxptlj oder Hallo." In an informal session following this declaration, newsmen learned the basis for this new policy of the Empire. "We found it," disclosed the Minister, "in the pages of Miskatonic University."

Meanwhile, the emergence of a new addition to the community of nations in Africa has occasioned much concern among world leaders over the alleged racist policies of the recently independent Commonwealth of Bolganiland. Reported have been incidents of wholesale denigration of human minority groups by the simian tribesmen constituting 3.1416% of the population, but dominating the government by virtue of exclusive possession of franchise, political, organizational powers, and 27,000 half-million-cycle cannons scrapped last Fall by the European powers. One correspondent derided the claims of oppression, calling the graphic account of a "dum-dum" ceremony in Opar, capital of the new republic, "a gross tissue of flagrant exaggeration patently meant to mislead the uninformed and impressionable not conversant with the African situation and unaware of the extraordinary measures necessary to prevent wholesale reversion to savagry on the part of the Homo Sapiens inhabiting select portions of the continent." Bundolo Times reporter Cyril Dakp-Zan continued "The wise and benevolent rule of the Bolgans under our Lord Protector Grodd and the Holy Reformed Church of God, Bibliologist will assure the gradual development of these persons of hairlessness to the eventual level of self-administration. A reservation based on all-human local government has already been established in the central Kalihari with the eventual aim in mind of relocating all non-simian residents to similar reserves."

No comment has yet been obtained from Bolgani civil leader Grodd, who also serves in the post of God if the state religion...

the Austrian retreat is due in on the 4th of August.

Well, here we are at Dan Brannan's place, late after midnight, and I ah, have this gaping gap, no, make that GAP! in my editorial material collection. What to do... If I were Larry Peery, I'd just drithe on for a page or so on some ravings about the imponderability of imponderables, or bluther up a rehash of the good middle-class creed- (the individual is subordinate to the society-even in matters where the individual betterment of all individuals per se is possible by a simple alteration of the social order, this may not occur, etc...)

I'm basically a revolutionary...I can't see, though, that the standard "revolution" that so many preach in these parts is any real improvement...what many people claim to be "progress" is often real enough as change...there are so many measures of society, and I suppose claiming progress would first require that all of these be numbered, and the gain on the many be shown to be greater than the loss on the others. Much progress seems to me to be the rearrangement of the sand in a sandbox, as carried out by a blind person...the only tangible measure of progress is the material standard of living. It is not enough to hold this up...the standard of living may be tangible, but it may not always be particularly relevant. In many instances, people may be happier in a situation which provides less than the maximum attainable material affluence... now, though, why do people find 'happiness' in a world of material plenty? I suppose it is because of the comfort of not being cold, hungry, etc. Having solved the physical problems of life, do not further refinements of the protections and comforts become less useful? There is a distinction from the trend of these questions and the recent national events questing to make me help prevent the populace from taking apart the regional urban material and physical plant. That is merely a revolutionary power struggle involving political battles, political rights, political equality, etc...

Well. I feel bound to inform all of the players that Bill Bogert has asked me to replace him in this game. This game is so fouled up now; all we need is a replacement player, how about that! Unless I get a bomb with next season's orders blasting me on this, I will leave the German position open, and continue to send Bill copies of M.U., so that he may submit orders, if he wants to.

DEADLINE IS WED.EVE, AUG 16!!!!

Usually, I'll consent to replace somebody when begged to do so by the person replaced...

IN THE WORKS: another !(*$%&) @ variant! This time we call it Second Cross, it will be a spré of economic SuperDippy, with off-the-board players operating the Secret International Conspiracy!

Giving the Works! Monad 100!(Tactics 15, really), the latest LTA super-diplomacy-wargame where each player plays by writing orders and instructions to the various arms of his Government just as would Hitler, Caesar, James Latimer,...

due to the complexity of the ~~the~~ negotiations involved, only local players will play in MONAD. However, if you are desperately facinated, and can't find a reliable doctor, write Bailey or even your humble editor for the rules.....
