DEADLINE for SPRING, 1901 is FRIDAY, APRIL 3, 1981

Why not send a set of orders now? You can always revise them later.

NOTE: Though Errol Platt and Steve Hutton both live in the same city, Steve will be moving to Waterloo, Ont. in May, so this shouldn't present any problems. Turkey and England haven't much to say to each other in 1901 anyhow.

A Boardman number has been applied for. In you're unfamiliar with postal play (some are new to the hobby), please put the Boardman number (or game name) at the top of all correspondence and include your country's name, and the game year. Include the real date as well. If you telephone your orders (I don't encourage this, unless it's an emergency when you can't get your orders in on time), the deadline is always considered to be the night before the printed deadline. Be prepared to clearly identify yourself should you telephone.

I've included pages from earlier editions that cover areas more fully than the houserules. Hopefully these will answer some of your questions.

GOOD NEWS: I've just concluded a deal with a local printer to have SNAFU! photocopied in future. It'll cost me more, but at least everyone will be able to read it. Should look better too!

Anyhow, don't panic, and remember when things are darkest that it's only a game. Be kind to your GM. Remember he's in this for the fun.
