(Second time I've said that)

(Would you believe Tough Snow?;?)

In view of the fact that we are a hard core magazine dedicated to a hard core policy, we have made some resolutions, decisions, and other BS.

First off, we think that those who go around spilling milk (intentionally) on our super-bitchin' mag should be exorcised. Our thanks for the two $, Jim; you'll get it back if and when you complete this game. Thanks also to Art for his promise to send coin.

I have been receiving all sorts of BS about my attitude towards Postal Diplomacy, as well as about our policy on propaganda.

Jack, my feeling is that if people want to play silly games, let them. This doesn't change my idea that Diplomacy is a ridiculous waste of time (this doesn't mean that I don't play it, for I do occasionally); I think if someone can find something better to do with time, he ought to do that.

Propaganda, as I was told, is a tool of the game. It can be at that. However, some of it may not be at all useful. Consequently, we reserve the right to delete from, or file, any BS that is sent in. For the most part we will judge propaganda on its usefulness. If you want all of your stuff reprinted, even though it is wholly inane, then send us one thin dime with each release and maybe it'll get in (if it isn't too damn long). OK?;?

We have been receiving some requests for subscription and advertising rates, as though anybody could sell anything in this tear-sheet (maybe you can! Try it!). These rates are as follows:

1. SUBSCRIPTIONS: $1.50 per set of issues for one game (specify which game you want the issues of). NO MAG TRADING PLEASE.
2. ADVERTISING: Short notices, 10c.
Short articles 25c.*
Long articles 50c.*
3. BACK ISSUES: Each at 25c.

* Articles are anything which you may want to write about (except propaganda, for which see above) and have advertised. This definition is subject to change. Those articles that we think newsworthy may be published free.

There will be a new game starting as soon as we get a full game list. No players in current game eligible. If you are interested in playing send your name and address, $3.50 (of which $2 is refundable when you finish the game out), and choice of country (with alternates), and we will be under way.

ALSO - we will be starting tournament games with prizes for the winner. There will be a rating system published, and results announced from time to time. More on this later.

And now for a quick parting shot:

VON METZKE: Jeffrey, your policy on press releases is amazing!
