Let's hope everybody had a very enjoyable and safe Christmas. Over the holidays the school is basically shut down, so I spent a week working in the Admin office. I notice they had a typer, so I thought I would take advantage of it and make this look good. Merry Christmas! It's been awhile since I've done any typing, so don't be too hard on me if you find a few mistakes here and there.

I am very impressed with the renewed interest everyone is taking in the games. I figured most people wouldn't give a damn, but I was wrong. The amount of enthusiasm is overwhelming and it makes me feel good. I've been toying with the idea of taking on some orphans and putting out something ala CHEESECAKE. Your support is making my decision easy. I've still got a few loose ends to take care of with the fold of DtT, but after that situation is cleared up - it's full speed ahead!

* DEADLINE FOR ALL GAMES IS 31 JAN, 1984

ENGLAND-WORLD: I am appalled, ashamed, and aghast at the dirty, low handed, dastardly, devilishly way in which Russia has treated Austria. Austria has not merely been stabbed-Noooooo.....Russia will not be content until the Austrian abdomen is ripped open and she lays disembowled and bloody - a torn and broken piece of garbage. On the other hand, the timing was magnificent and it DID work! Nice going Jeff! Keep up the good work in the true spirit of Diplomacy.

PARIS-LONDON: What will it take to get you off? A bribe? Just let me know -- for all you know I could be a very wealthy man!

FRANCE-ITALY&AUSTRIA: If you two haven't already smoked the peace pipe, do so quickly or forget this game. Ed, why not partake with us all?

ITALY-FRANCE: There's nothing more vengeful than an ally scorned; just ask Austria.

ITALY-RUSSIA&ENGLAND: I find myself falling now, I only hope it was a tight rope and not a noose.

PARIS-MARSAILLES: What difference does it make that you're surrounded if there's no need to retreat?

MARSAILLES: The German high command takes exception to being kicked in the shin by the Italian Admiralty. Kick a Frenchman, they're raping Italy.

FRANCE-RUSSIA: Greedy, greedy, greedy! Of course, if England chooses not to stop you, you just might succeed in winning. You ARE going for the win aren't you? What other reason could there be for dumping a good ally for a different ally? Eleven down, seven to go.

Good luck -- hopefully you're going to need it.

MOSCOW: My thanks to my new allies - without whom the events of the preceding season could not have happened.
