Valhalla #10, 22 November 1968, is a joint production of Project Analysis Corporation and the DWE Press (and is DWE Pub #123). This issue is back on schedule, and we hope to hold to a tri-weekly rate in the future (with a possible week's delay over Christmas). This magazine strives to combine the features of a diplomacy journal and of a sub-division of Strategy and Tactics (available from Wagner at $7.50 per year - six issues)... not always successfully. If the magazine bores you, if it fails to meet your expectations, if it does not offer what you desire, say so. After all, Valhalla was set up to carry Reader Service departments. If you don't want any services, we are hardly being delinquent in providing you with none. We are always interested in publicizing worthwhile wargaming projects, club news, interesting gossip, etc. Drop us a line, huh?

Readers whose Permanent Listings first appeared in Valhalla #4 have until issue #12 to renew. If they have not renewed and/or revised their listings before the publication date of #12 (late December), that issue will not carry their listing.

Ragnarok is finally getting underway, with the "Spring 1901" moves in three games just mailed out, and one more game (at least) due to start momentarily. Readers interested in fast paced, no-frill diplomacy games are invited to join one or more games in this new game series. Fee is $3 for the first game, and $1 for each additional game. Country choice is guaranteed if you have a preference, and the utmost care in conducting the games is a usual feature. Games are always open (until further notice) in Ragnarok. Why don't you join? Postal Rules accompany game list (though not the rules of Diplomacy itself.)

"Diplomacy" is a registered trademark of Games Research, Inc., from whom the game may be purchased for $7.50, postpaid. (48 Wareham St., Boston, Mass. 02118).

Underlined moves do not succeed. The Austrian Army Trieste may retreat to either Venice or Vienna. The English Fleet St. Petersburg is retreated to the Barrents sea. The Austrian retreat must be in (to Louisville) by Wednesday, 4 December 1968, at which time the English player may also exercise his option to remove rather than retreat. Other players may, of course, submit moves conditional upon the direction of this retreat (or these retreats).

RETREAT DEADLINE IS WEDNESDAY, 4 DECEMBER 1968
DEADLINE FOR "FALL 1904" ORDERS IS FRIDAY, 13 DECEMBER 1968

MOVE ANALYSIS: The Russian Army in the South has slipped through the Turkish lines, for no combination of Turkish moves can prevent Russia from holding one Turkish home center this fall. On the other hand, the Russians can hardly save Sevastapol, so it's an even trade.

The French failure to move this Spring does not imperil his own position, but it will make the destruction of Italy a much longer job than should have been true.

Meanwhile, it appears that England may come out of this year with little reduction in forces. That's incredible.

COMMENT, on last issue's "Move Analysis" from John McCallum:

Of course, in this instance, it made no difference at all whether the retreat was made or not. However, I have seen cases where a zine, in a Fall move where a power was reduced to no centres, wiped out the power's forces without giving the player concerned a chance to first order the retreat of the dislodged ones. Note, though, that in the basic game the retreats are made before the supply centre count is made so that such a player should always be allowed the privilege of making his retreat before his forces are removed. It could conceivably happen that such a player, about to be eliminated, might still be able to exercise influence on the course of the game, by standing off some retreat by another power. He shouldn't be deprived of that privilege merely because the supply centre count shows that he is down to zero centres; officially the count would not be made until after the retreat. ((Right.))

BERLIN'S ANALYST (FREUDIAN ALLEE): Well, it would appear that England has once again taken it in the ear. Whether this will affect the hearing ability of Chas. Reinsel is a matter of debate here. Whatever, it does seem certain that England is truly in her last days. One report from the Supreme Peericrat had it that it was the denial of the truth as interpreted by Velokowsky that has brought down the wrath of the Peerireich upon England.

LIVERPOOL (2 February 1904) Units of the fame Black and Blue Guard today occupied Liverpool. The Capitulation of England's second city without a resistance is being hailed in St. Peerigrad as one of the greatest military victories in Peerireich's h&story.

Following the Fall 1903 landing in Scarborough, Yorkshire, where the Guard was greeted by hundreds of cheering Anglans who hailed the liberation, the Guard begsn a forced march across Angland to Liverpool. Angland resistance was speedily dispatched outside of York, and the 4th Yorkshire Battalion of the Queens Own Sharpshooters, most of whom turned out to be pretty poor shots, was speedily put to flight. Continuing the march the Guard arrived in Huddersfield the day before Christmas and agreed to appear in the city's annual Christmas pageant where they added a strong note to the famed chorus' baritone and bass sections. The performance of the town composer's new oratorio And the Peerireich Shall Endure Forever was warmly received. The composer, P.D.Q.B.S. Bachiannas, has been invited to compose another oratorio for the capture of Liverpool. Music critics noted that certain sections of the oratorio showed some signs of hasty re-write. Especially in the second section, "And Great Was Their Victory" where the chorus sang:

And great was their victory,
and mighty were their armies;
those men of the Black and Blue.
Who vanquished their foes
and nevered cried woe.

The original text supposedly read:

And great was their victory,
and mighty were their armies,
those men of blue and greene.
Who vanquished their foes;
and seized their towels,
and waved them, and waved them,
for all the world to see...

However, this was not believed to be appropriate for the occasion.

Following the concert the army continued its march across the Pennine Chain of mountains during the dead of winter. Bypassing Manchester and St. Hellans the Guard surrounded Liverpool in early Spring. A series of exploratory thrusts revealed the Angland garrison was totally unprepared (they had spent the Winter whoring and drinking and doing other natural things) for battle. Rather than see his honor disgraced, the commander of the garrison committed suicide whereon his entire force marched out of the city and surrendered en mass to the Guard (an unusual situation since the Anglans are known to be protestant heretics). Colonel James Justin Dygert, commander of the Queen's Own Irish Sharpshooters, surrendered the greene and blue paisely colors of the regiment to Major General Hans Verban, of the Guards. The Guard then took up stations in the city and prepared to continue the occupation of the country.

SCARBOROUGH (4 February 1904) The Peericrat's Own Dutch Volunteer Beer Drinkers Regiment landed here today to join the occupation forces. Upon learnang of the holding of the annual Scarborough Fair the troops abandoned their weapons to mix with the natives in a show of friendly comraderie. Wearing beads, flowers, greene and blue paisley minitowels, and other native garb the troops eyed the loca lasses and grabbed the local scenery.

ST. PEERIGRAD (5 February 1904) The Supreme Peericrat, Johann von Ralstonstadt today announced the attack on Angland was nearly over and that some three-fifths of the country had been occupied by the joint Peerireich-Russian forces.

MALE, MALDIVE ISLANDS (5 February 1904) Peerireich marines stormed ashore here today to seize the island's main city and only above-water atoll after it had been invaded by Angland's allies the Ceylonese. The troops quickly dispatched the Ceylonese and took up quarters in the city's famed Playboy Club. ((The Male Playboy Club???)

LAGOS, NIGERIA, PERILAND (21 January 1904) Postmaster General Lawrence O'Peering was sworn in today as President of Periland following his release from the California Home for the Bewildered where he had been imprisoned by Governor Ronald Reagan and Gen. Hugie Black Panther Kaos. Gen. Hershey Lewis led a picked band of 4-F'ers volunteer troops into the Home to liberate O'Peering from his cell. They found the president playing with his tinker toys but otherwise fine.

O'Peering announced he was appointing the other two major coalition candidates to posts in his administration. Mayor Joseph Alliotto of Walnut Creek was to serve as ambassador to the Peerireich and Jacque Greene, of the Hillsborough PTA Party was to serve as Ambassador to UNISEX, the International birth-control agency.

HARPER VALLEY (7 March 1904) The Harper Valley PTA today passed a resolution calling for the expulsion of the state of Hollywood-Pasadena-LaMirada-San Marino-La Craseneca-Watts from the Periland confederation of international manipulators and blackguards. The resolution will be the first act of business of the new Assembly when it meets in December.

SUFFIELD EXPERIMENTAL STATION (8 March 1904) The SES announced today that it had perfected a new type of identification device based on a greene-bean reaction type test. The test is administered by administering a greenebean to the testee and identifying one of the following reactions:

- 1) Type A Positive: Testee turns greene
- 2) Type A Negative: Testee turns blue
- 3) Type B Positive: Testee turns greene and blue
- 4) Type B Negative: Testee turns orange

This test should be of great aid in identifying enemy agents of SMIRK, all of which are type B negative, and agents of KAOS (or the New York City Public Civil Service) who are type A Negative. If not, it makes a fun party game.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF THE PEERIREICH: Any nations which fails to accept in full the provisions of the International Agreement for the Banning of Greenebeans and Other Harmful Drugs (St. Peerigrad, 1904) will be considered an enemy. And that means you....
