Valhalla #13, 31 January 1969, is a joint production of the Project Analysis Corporation and the DWE Press (and is DWE Pub #131). The magazine strives to combine the features of a Diplomacy magazine (hence the game it carries, the listing of game openings, etc.) and of an information media for wargamers of less narrow interests (hence the reader service departments).

Readers whose Permanent Listings first appeared in Valhalla #6 must renew their Listings (through Chris Wagner) in order to have them appear in #14. Entries in both the "Permanent Listings" and the "Postal Locator" columns are made without charge, and those listed -- contrary to what was said last issue -- need not subscribe to either Valhalla or Strategy and Tactics.

Strategy and Tactics, by the way, an excellent journal of wargaming, is available from Chris Wagner at $7.50 per year (6 issues, photo-offset).

"Diplomacy" is a registered trademark of Games Research, Inc. (48 Wareham St., Boston, Mass. 02118) from whom the game may be purchased for $7.50, postpaid. The game is also available from PAC at Wagner's address above, for the same sum.

Underlined moves do not succeed. The English Fleet Belgium is annihilated, for lack of a possible retreat. The English Fleet Sweden may retreat to either the Gulf of Bothnia, the Baltic Sea, the Skaggerak, or off the board. The French Army Trieste may retreat to either Tyrolia, Venice, or off the board. These retreats should accompany the "Winter 1905" orders, which may be made conditional upon them. The Russian Army Sevastapol is retreated to Moscow. The Russian player has until the "Winter 1905" deadline to exercise his option to remove rather than retreat.

MOVE ANALYSIS John McCallum comments that the division of strength after the current moves will be 17-14-3, rather than the 16-15-3 I predicted in Valhalla #12... and he's right. Of course, I had based this prediction on the premise of a French-Turkish alliance facing a Russo-German pact, with Italy, Austria and England the odd men out (each with one unit). What has apparently happened, however, is that Italy has allied with France and, in return for being allowed to retain Marseilles, is pushing toward England to outflank the Germanys. If, indeed, Turkey and France are allied (despite their mixup in Austria this time) then the balance is indeed 17-14-3, with England and Austria making up the odd men out in this triangle.

John Smythe also objects to my belittling of the Russian tactics in last issue, mentioning "there was no reason to expect Zelazny would commit the Army Armenia, the Army Rumania, and the Fleet Black Sea to eliminate my army in Asia Minor, especially when these pieces bordered on Sevastapol. In the Spring he could've taken Sevastapol and still been in position to secure his three home centers. If he had captured Sevastapol with the three pieces the move 'A Con-Ank' would have been a good move." I agree, of course. Actually, after his smooth performance in the Spring, Turkey has apparently slipped up. Zelazny moved on to Bulgaria, apparently forgetting that to reestablish control of the center he would have to occupy it after a Fall move. Thus Russia retains control of the center, and is prevented only by the lack of open home centers from building three this year. (Of course, has Zelazny held in Constantinople this Fall he would still be building only two, and Russia would be building two. Since he can reestablish control next year, he has probably not slipped at all.)

Finally, Larry Peery comments that "your analysis presupposes that France and I have a quarrel, which as of now, at least so far as I know, we do not." He is, of course, correct in that my analysis did presuppose a French-German quarrel (which, from the current moves, apparently does exist), but this serves to emphasize an important -- but hitherto unmentioned -- point: my "move analysis" each turn is based upon nothing more than a consideration of the current and past moves. Certainly it is not based upon a special knowledge which has come my way in my role as gamesmaster. Therefore, whatever I say is only in the nature of speculation (or is an enlargement upon and explanation of some point of rule interpretation), and should certainly not be taken by the players and indicating some intelligence about the motives of the other players which is not to be deduced from the game itself.

MARI-JUANA (23 November 1905) The authoritative Banana Times today reported that the newly installed Government of Col. Enrico Borgas Dias had been recognized officially by the Peerireich. Col. Dias seized power early this month after a Peerireich fleet bombarded the nation's capital and marines seized the former presidente, Juan Batista Castro, taking him prisoner. The new Government is expected to follow a generally Pro-Peerireich policy and has already announced the institution of a national orange boycott. Meanwhile, the local production of bananas scard drastically on news that DOW Chemical had found a new type of fertility pill combining the banana leaf and the greenebean. Inspectors from the WHO were visiting the nation to investigate rumors that a massive population boom is on in Rio Leonie Province.

ST, PEERIGRAD (25 November 1905) Command Center today denied reports that American capitalist Howard Hughes was reportedly planning to buy the entire Peerireich and transport it to Las Vegan, Nevada. Interviewed here, the Supreme

Peericrat, Johann von Ralstonstadt, said: "Even Hughes couldn't do that. Besides, we've got a nifty contract with Gene Autry to merge us with the Los Angeles Angels and re-name them the St. Peerigrad Devils. Or something..."

Meanwhile, commentators noted that rumors of a German-French rift were totally inaccurate. So secure are German-French relations said the Berlin Der Tagblatt that the Peericrat is proceeding with plans to launch a joint German-French expedition to the New World, to recover our lost colonies. The Germans will get Pennsylvania and the French Quebec. What could be more fair?

ST. PEERIGRAD (1 December 1905) The National Peerireich Press was today reportedly hard at work to prepare a new giant press release from Command Central on the current war. Writers at the Press refused to speculate on the contents but scraps from the Press pile contained such interesting tid-bits as:

"Cast Boardman as Clark Gable... Margaret as Scarlett O'Hara, Baikey as the Mamie... can Arthur Fieldler play 'Dixie'... Dixie who?... will Howard Hughes put up the money to buy the Vatican?... how many extras for the chariot scene?... Who plays Nero? Jack Greene as the Man from La Mancha?... Turner as Luther?... Walker as Gomer Pyle?... Koning as Dr. Strangelove?... Derek Nelson as Mrs. Strangelove?... Peery as Cecil B. DeMille?... Sarah F. Allen as Little Orphan Annie... and John McCallum as Walt Disney?..."

GENEVA (DWE) Workers from the International Red Cross, police, firemen, newsmen, and sadistic lockers-on today rushed to Upper Newtownards Road and the offices of the Geneva Daily Valhalla. Early reports indicated that the 30 story building had collapsed, injuring dozens and trapping members of the Youngstown University Diplomacy Club in the basement bar (later reports indicated that none of the YUDC players noticed anything out of the ordinary... as this reporter has surveyed the remains of some of the other buildings in which they have played, he finds that easy to believe).

An inquiry by city engineers later disclosed that the building, ruled safe for occupancy by over 3600 people, had collapsed under the weight of numerous large parcels from San Diego, each bearing the cryptic insignia "Peery's Press Releases." Full details will probably be available within three weeks.

Meanwhile, messages from the YUDC members trapped in the basement decline any need for rescue, but do use the installation of a pipeline into the basement to deliver fresh supplies of beer. It seems that there's this guy named "Nelson" and...

GAME OPENINGS & ETC.

- 1) Contrary to what last issue said, Brobdingnag, now under the editorship of Ed Halle (Box 903, Gainesville, Fla. 32601) does not sell for 10/$3, but rather 10/$1. The game fee is $3. And while there are openings any player would be well advised to take advantage of them... Bro has always been a very good magazine, and Halle is determined to keep up its standards.
- 2) Ragnarok from John Koning (318 So. Belle Vista, Youngstown, Ohio 44509) continues to offer efficient, fast (bi-weekly) games in which country-choice is guaranteed. Fee is $3 for first game, $1 thereafter.
- 3) Much the same system as Ragnarok will be offered in a new game series by David Lindsay (2245 Fairmont Parkway, Erie, Pa. 16510) except that the games will be FREE. Write immediately for details.
- 4) Robert Perkins (2775 Carlaris Rd., San Marino, Calif. 91108) has openings in Spald, Jr. Fees are $3 for those not receiving the magazine already, $2 for those who do, in regular Diplomacy; $3.50 and $2.50 in variants. Subscriptions are 10/$2 .
- 5) La Guerre from Buddy Tretick (3702 Wendy Lane, Silver Spring, Maryland 20906) has openings in regular Diplomacy, plus a large number of variants. Fees are $3 for players new to LG, $2 to current players or to those joining two or more games.
