(Rome) Way-Our-Drop-Out, a well known protester, has started a protest march through all of upper Slobbia and lower Europe. His goal is to warn England of its danger in not corresponding with Italy.

Way-Out says that nations who fail to negotiate make their neighbours richer.

were recommended as new players worthy of being included in a New Player Invitational game I had planned. However, we are so far behind in our publishing that I think it would be foolish for us to start any new games right now. Perhaps someone else starting new games might send the above gentlemen a free issue?

POSTMARK DEADLINE: 1965KM; Fall 1915 moves; March 9, 1968

John McCallum has offered to carry some of our games in BRBDIGNAG for a while, until we get caught up. Now, don't everyone yell at once! Lets take bids - who'll send John McCallum the most money to get his game carried in BROBDIGNAG for a while? Now look fellows, I know I'm behind, but I will catch up, and I actually believe we'll publish on a regular schedule this year. I've done it before, for short periods of time. I've got efficient help now. Don't everybody quit! Have faith. Be patient. Do you know how many years Adolf spent as a private?

We'll publish a biography on Pournelle soon. I'm sure many of you will be interested. I've gotten some information on him, though I suspect its quite exaggerated, knowing the source.

I still have the game in the planning with the four players per Great Power, one Admiral, one General, one Diplomat, and one Finance Minister. The Victory criterion is temporarily a hurdle. Its obvious how a General or Admiral might win (with supply centers) and how a Finance Minister might win (with $), but how could a Diplomat win the game? Of course the original purpose of the game was for all the Finance Ministers to be local players so that they could play power up their country's finances and the Gamesmaster could play too. (ditto on stakes, of course)

The Mad Stapling Machine of Washington (Don Miller) is planning to make his game-zine family even more complicated and add even more games. He mentions Interplanetary (Widner/Ellik/Irwin version). Is that the same "Fats" Ron Ellik we all know so well?
