Fall 1904

1965KY

(Berlin) It was announced today that the previous instability of the German government was merely a contrived front to buy time for honing our dreaded saber thrust into Europe's Breadbasket. In Pomp, in Pageantry, in Wagnerian grandeur, in mass demonstrations that create mass Emotion we will Defeat Democracy with the tools of democracy!

I discern the closeness of civilized man with the savagery of animals, and fathom only reason to separate the two. Reason can treacherously deceive a man, but Emotion is sure and never leaves him.

Nothing is more certainly written in the book of fate than that Diplomacy Fans are to be free; nor is it less certain that these Fans, equally free, cannot live in the same Fandom. Nature, habit, opinion have drawn indelible lines of distinction between them. It is still in our power to direct the process of emancipation and deportation peaceably, and in such slow degree, as that the evil will wear off insensibly. To these ends I pledge my life, my fortunes, and my sacred honor. (I also have a need for savages.)

I ask for your help -- and God's.

Spring 1906

1965KX

(Rome) Government ministers reported to the Senate that negotiations are taking place with the various claimants to the British Throne, and all factions have declared that the major goal is to restore order to the Island Kingdom, and to bring the Fleets under some kind of central government. While these negotiations are taking place, Roman Fleets are protecting the British Isles from invasion. It is expected that the government will not ask for permission to incorporate Britain into the Roman Empire for some time to come. One minister is quoted as having said, "After all, so long as the British Fleets stand guard over the northern approaches to our French territory, why replace them? It would take over a year, for example, to bring another fleet up to do the job which the British North Sea force is doing now --, namely, bottling up the German Fleet. However, the Channel is very important for our future invasion plans, and we find it necessary, when the British sailors will not join our Roman Navy, to retire the English Channel Fleet."

Spring 1904

(St. Petersburg) For the first time in four years, reporters have managed to locate the government, although the Foreign Office is still missing. A mimeographed sheet was distributed which extolled the Heroic Fighting of the German (sic) armed forces, deplored all bloodshed, and, as an after thought, declared war on England and Turkey. Several spaces were left blank, to be filled in at a later date, if such should be required, and someone had scratched Italy's name on the list. Other reporters examining the blanks suggested that they could already see a faint outline of Austria and France, as though someone had been practising to add these to the list of Russian enemies. "not bad," said one official, with evident glee, "five of the six powers. They'll have a time dividing Russia up five ways."

(Vienna) Tyrolia is not a vital supply center, true. However, Tyrolia is the central crossroads of Europe, and Austria intends to maintain our Sovereignty over this territory, if necessary, at much cost. "We will," said Baron Munchausen, "send corps of experienced mountain guides to help the French back to more profitable (and more healthful) areas."

The Spring 1904 moves will be delayed for two issues, partly because Jose is back in the game and partly because some of the players complained that they did not have time to write their moves properly. (The last issue was mailed two days late.)

The deadline for any move revisions is April 10, 1966.
