

Wild 'n' Wooly

I still say that if it hadn't been for the uncertainty factor of whether the tidal wave would strike Sevastopol in Spring 1907 or in the Indian Summer of 1908, my Mark IX computer would have beaten your Mark IX computer in that last game!

Spring 1904 Retreats

1966KN

(Belgrade) The entire surviving Serbian population joyfully greeted the triumphant entry of Crown Prinz Eugen and his Servian Liberation Army into this bitterly contested city. "Hmm, I wonder why there is such a small turnout?" commented the Prince.

(Vienna) Franz-Jocund the XXIX made an unexpected return from his Bohemian hunting lodge last week and held a secret inspection of the Austrian General Staff. A garbled report indicated that he said, "-- more better we still should kill some Poles!"

Fall 1911

(Rome) In a stormy session, the Senate, by a 3 to 1 majority, declared war upon all and sundry. It appears that Rome cannot suffer the continued presence of the barbarian in Greece and Dalmatia. Admiral Lago's forces were ordered to secure Attica. In the north, the 7th consular army is fighting its way into the fortress city of Trieste.

In Gaul, the advancing Legions of Scipio Africanus continue their conquest of the last remains of the odious Oedupus. The latest report from Africanus indicate that the Capitol has fallen after only 5 days of of continuous assault. Some forty thousand of the defenders were slaughtered before the survivors surrendered.
