

Winsome Losesome

ISSUE SEVENTEEN

SEPTEMBER 26, 1983

INTRODUCTION

WINSOME LOSESOME is a gaming publication dedicated to the play of Postal DIPLOMACY. DIPLOMACY is a multi-player political conflict game invented by Allan devoted exclusively to Postal DIPLOMACY. WINSOME LOSESOME is published by me, Judy Winsome, at 3902 Lakemead Way, Redwood City, CA 94062. Subscriptions are 40 cents an issue. I suggest you send a check for $5.00 and I will credit your account accordingly. There are no game fees, you can play as long as you maintain a subscription. I use five week deadlines. The deadline for this issue is THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1983.

GAME OPENING IN SUBZINE - DOTS INCREDIBLE!

Tim Winger, the publisher of Dots Incredible, an occasional subzine of Winsome-Losesome has decided to run a 2 week deadline game of regular Diplomacy. He will put out the results directly and publish periodic status reports in WL. Gamefee is $3.00 with a $2.00 NMR deposit which is refundable if you don't NMR twice in a row. Send your money to Tim Winger, PO Box 13043, Denver CO 80201.

SORRY I'M LATE

Due to work and personal commitments, and partly due to equipment failures, this is a week late. Sorry. I didn't even send out game results. You will notice I have cut off one of my 'tails in repentance. I mailed the pigtail to Mike Mills to be auctioned with other items for the benefit of several Diplomacy Hobby services. For a list of items being auctioned, send a SASE to him at 26 Laurel Rd., Sloatsburgh, NY 10974.

STANDBYS

Standbys to WINSOME-LOSESOME get free subscriptions when they are called and for as long as they are playing a standby position. Any other standbys out there? Larry McCloud, Roland Louie, Terry Tallman, Mark Keller, Lynn Torkelson, and Tim Allen are receiving this issue free for being a standby or for being called as a standby. I called for Tim Allen to standby for Italy in 1982 HV.

Standbys: Mike Barno, Steve Knight, James Wall, Scott Hanson, Joe Stark, Jack Jung, Jim McPhail, Tim Allen, Terry Tallman, Charlie Morris.

GENETIC ENGINEERING CONTEST

I was pondering the other day what wonderful possibilities lie in genetic engineering. After having stepped on a fresh piece of gum that someone had discarded, I wondered if they could develop a bird that eats gum. Then, knowing you have some of the wierdest imaginations in existence, I wondered what you might come up with. I will give 25 cents subscription credit to all entries I use. This has got to be better than my asshole contest. Didn't you enter that?

Germany-FFL: Go ahead and laugh. Go ahead and say, "I told you so."

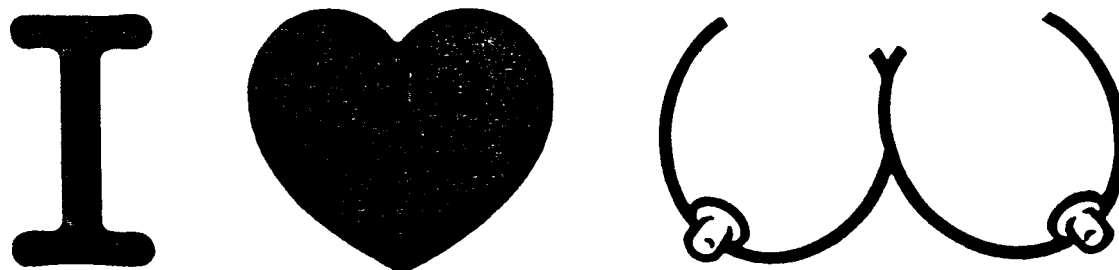

Wales-Valhala: Thank you Dave. I am looking forward to another game with you. Fare thee well. Shalom.

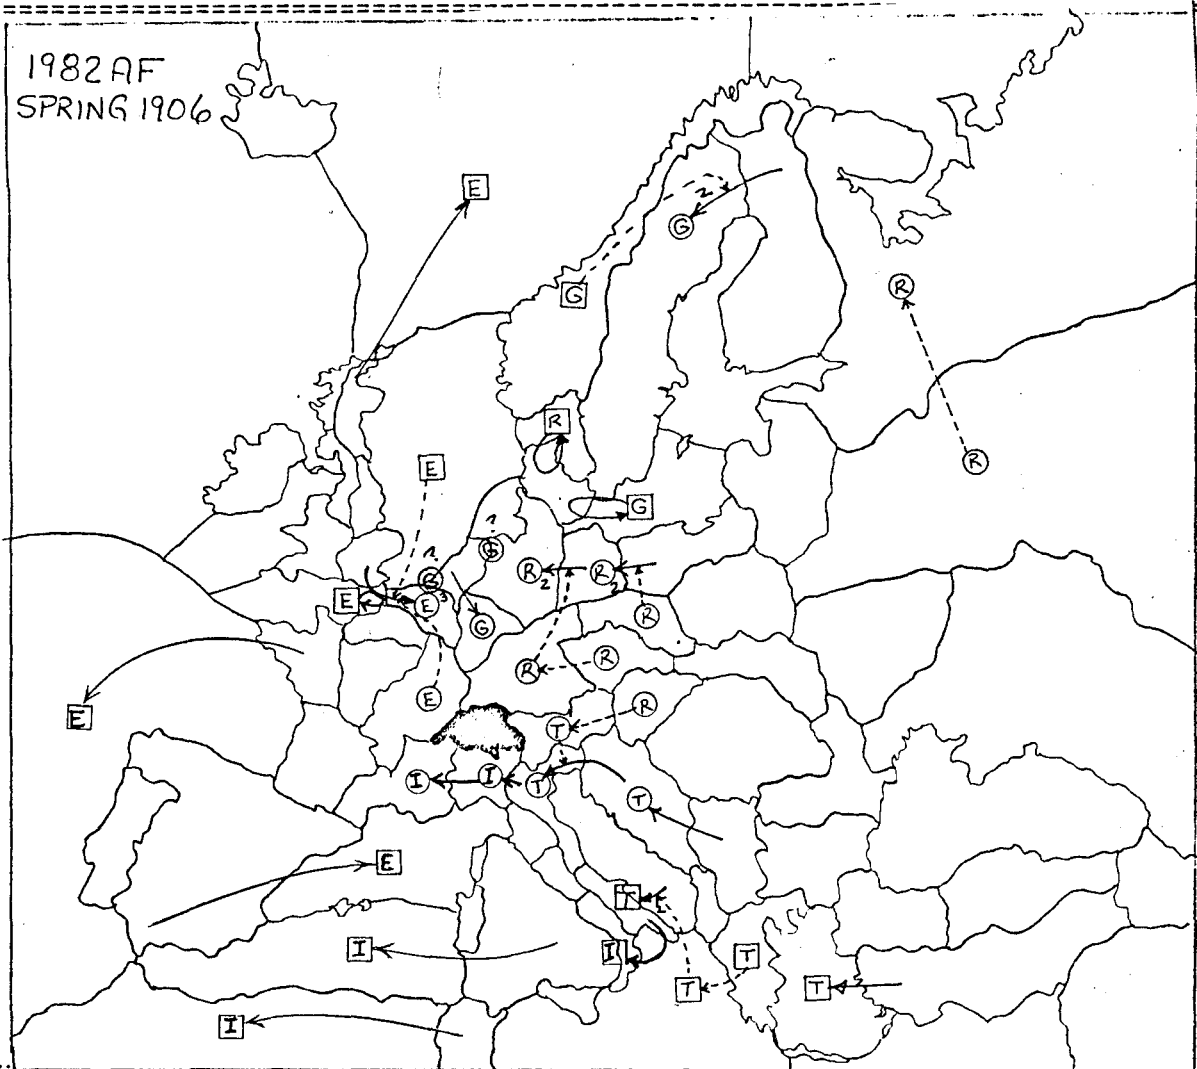

Wales-Judy: This game incites me to mania. I even stabbed a friendly person. Shame.

Judy-Wales: Shame indeed. Repent as I have repented. Fill yourself with shame. Even flog yourself. Wait a minute, not THAT way!

Tuscany-Wales: What was there to write about? I told you and Robyn that if you two left me alone, I would try to hold the Med front. In response, you steal Spain, so now I have no F Nap build. Do I need to write and say "Don't stab me" or "Remember our plan" each month? What has changed? Now, of course, YOU own Spain, and I am short. OK, I got the message. I was on the wrong side. Corrective action follows.

The Scott Hanson Dept:

I recently read Number 1 by Billy Martin & Peter Golenbock. Here is an excerpt from it that I particularly liked! Billy Martin is giving examples of how Mickey Mantle would always be playing tricks on him.

"One day we were going hunting. He (Mickey) said, "We're going down to south Texas, about a five-hour drive. I have a friend I went to school with there, he has a big ranch, and we can go deer hunting." I said great. We made the trip, got down there, and Mickey said, "You stay in the car. I'll go in and talk to my buddy, and we'll go right out and hunt." Mickey went into the house. I didn't know this, but the owner said to Mickey, "Heck, Mickey, you can hunt all over my place, but would you do me a favor? I have a pet mule who's going blind, and I don't have the guts to kill the poor fellow. Would you kill him for me?" So I didn't know he had asked Mickey to kill it.

Mickey came out, and he slammed the door like he was mad. I said, "What's the matter?" Mickey said, "He won't let us hunt here." I said, "You got to be kidding." He said, "No, I'm not, and I'm so mad that I'm going to go by the barn and shoot his mule." I said, "Mickey, you can't shoot that man's mule." He said, "The hell I ain't. I'm gonna kill that mule." We drove through the barnyard, and there was the mule. Mickey got out of the car with his rifle, and crack, he shot the mule and killed it. He turned around, and he saw that my rifle was smoking. He said, "What the hell are you doing/" I said, "I got two of his cows."

Ahh, that cost us some money."

ODDS AND ENDS

For Steve Knight -

FAT FONG SAY: MUSICIAN WHO DRINK
MUCH BEER CALLED "PEANIST."

A Joke from Julie,

Why didn't the bicycle enter the race? Because it was two tired.

An absolutely terrible obscene limerick from Rod Walker:

There once was a son of the peerage
Who was terribly fond of arrearage.

"Why cruise in the prow,
Which she might not allow,
When it's just as much fun back in steerage?"

One guy is telling another at work about a new bar down the street where you can get a beer, sandwich and piece of ass for 50 cents. The other guy can't believe that you can get a beer, sandwich and piece of ass for 50 cents. The first says that it is true. The second asks, "Have you ever been there?" The first says, "No, but my sister has."

The following article by Steve Hutton is payment for my winning his worst joke contest.

The Gulls Strike Back by Steve Hutton

The first clues were ambiguous: a lack of birds on the Toronto harbourfront and a strange blip on a radar screen. There was no sign that the two were related. But, when the birds were spotted near Buffalo, there was no avoiding the obvious conclusion: ten thousand Toronto seagulls were flying to New York City to shit on Dave Winfield's car. On sure, when he beaned a seagull during the Yankees/Blue Jays baseball game, he called it an 'accident'. Well, these birds were going to 'have an accident' too, one hundred at a time, directly over Winfield's car.'

After crossing the border, the birds approached a small town. One of the seagulls said, "This is Rochester." "Don't be silly," another gull replied, "Rochester is in Minnesota." The birds got very excited, thinking they were near the coast when they spotted a periscope. It seems that some kook had ordered a nuclear submarine from National Lampoon.

As they passed over Albany, a few birds banged into the 85th story of the Voice of Doom Houserules (Volume 1) Building. Spotting Bruce Linsey, several of the gulls made a 'movement' in his general direction. This came as no surprise to Bruce -- a lot of people have been doing that to him lately.

During all this time, the Governor of New York had not been idle. The National Guard was called out, and several anti-aircraft batteries were assembled in the vicinity of Dave Winfield's car. Yankee Stadium was covered with one of Bob Olsen's T-shirts. But, these were just backup measures in case his plan failed. The Governor was on the telephone. "Good afternoon, Miss, this is the Governnor of New York." ... "What do you mean, 'so what'? We have an emergency and require your assistance." ... "We'll give you a chocolate bar." ... "No, John won't eat this one. The National Guard will see to that!"

As always, Phyllis Byrne's room was a mess. In one corner, biologists were discovering new life forms. In another, archeologists were uncovering the ruins of an ancient civilization. The scientists were patiently at work when Phyllis came in and said, "Everybody out! We're going to have company."

All over New York, hasitly erected signs said "To Dave Winfield's Place". They pointed towards a small house in Flushing, New York. Immense trails of bird seed led to the same place. The trap was set, but would the seagulls take the bait?

There was a sign. It contained five thousand flashing lights. The lights spelled out a name. The name was 'Dave Winfield'. At the sight of his name, the birds became agitated. A few of them even lost bowel control.

At this point, perhaps a brief digression is in order. No doubt, you are wondering what happens when, in a flock of 10,000 seagulls, a few lose bowel control. When a seagull near the top releases his payload, there is a high probability that one or more of the seagulls below him will be hit. Any bird that is hit with the less-digestible portions of another bird's dinner invariably suffers some involuntary muscle contractions of his own. This continues in a chain reaction down the flock. The result is that if only a few seagulls near the top listen to the call of nature, the excrement will 'trickle down' to the other members of the flock and virtually all of those on the lowest level will feel some effects. It is reported (by an unreliable source) that President Reagan considered using the 'pigeon do-do' analogy in one of his major economic policy speeches.

Returning to our story, the seagulls followed the bird seed trail to the house in Flushing, New York. Their plan was to lay waste (so to speak) the entire four block area around the house, with particular emphasis on car windshields.

In the open window of Phyllis Byrne's room stood a life-size cardboard cut-out of Dave Winfield. Nearby, a tape recorder repeated over and over again, in Winfield's voice, "You stupid birds; my car's in here, and you can't get it!". The birds, showing great gull ability (get it, gull ability -- gullibility, ha ha ha) ((We would like to apologize for the preceeding joke -- Quality Control Dept.)) dove straight down, through the open window, into the bedroom.

In the middle of the room was a black hole -- all of the garbage in Phyllis's room crushed into a space smaller than a pea. As the birds came through the window, they were instantly sucked into the black hole. Naturally, they were scared. Fortunately for the Sanitation Department, they were scared shitless.

Epilogue: Thanks to the ingenuity of Phyllis Byrne, New York was spared a White Labour Day. A grateful team of scientists split the black hole back into its original pieces. Phyllis received a Congressional Medal of Honour and a chocolate bar. When John go home, he ate the chocolate bar. When Kathy got home, she told Phyllis to clean up her room. Some things never change.

((Thanks Steve for paying off with an interesting article.))
